Antioch set to celebrate 100th year

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

After over a year of planning and preparation, the celebration to honor Antioch's 100th year has arrived, ending the anxious anticipation of the entire community.

Officially, the celebration begins at 10 a.m. on June 27 when Centennial Committee Special Events Chairman Claude LeMere kicks off the week with a special countdown, which will also signal the start of the Centennial Parade.

Numerous other activities are scheduled after the parade, including PM&L's production "1776" at 8 p.m. The Antioch Fire Department's Fireman's Dance, scheduled for 9 p.m. at the Fire Department, will end what should be a most memorable day in Antioch, and set the pace for the rest of the week.

According to LeMere, the parade is set for a 10:30 a.m. start in front of Antioch Community High School. The parade, entitled "The Pageant of American Flags," will have an estimated 65 floats and over 140 units participating in the parade, which will replace the annual July 4 parade for this year.

The Pageant of American Flags, which will follow behind the U.S. Army Band in the parade, signifies the commitment of our brave military fighting men and women to our country.

"If it wasn't for the men and women who died in defense of our country, we wouldn't have the great country we have today," said LeMere.

Antioch mourns loss of community leader, friend

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Antioch's own William Brook, whose vision as the head of his hometown bank led the village into the modern era, died at his home on June 22, one week short of seeing his village's 100th birthday celebration.

Brook, 76, had undergone surgery in May for a tumor on his spine. He is survived by his wife Janet of Antioch and their daughter Ainsley Wunderling of Lake Villa.

"Everyone is going to miss him," said Antioch Mayor Robert Wilton. "It's a shame he won't be here to enjoy the Centennial Week that he was so instrumental in developing."

Brook was an Antioch native who was active in the community and was inducted into the Antioch Women's Club Hall of Fame earlier this year for his service and leadership on the Antioch High School School Board for more than 13 years. This year he was co-chairman of the Antioch Centennial Committee.

Antioch Centennial Committee co-chairman Linda Pedersen said, "He was just a wonderful man. He wanted this Centennial event to be a success. We're certainly going to miss him."

Brook was the longtime president of the State Bank of Antioch, a bank started by his grandfather and father in 1894. Brook began to work at the bank after he graduated from Beloit College in 1937. He also graduated from Antioch elementary (Continued on Page 16)

Trustees talk plans for new golf course

GURNEE—Gurnee's financial consultant, Spear Financial, will be looking over the pluses and minuses of three proposals to run an 18-hole municipal golf course. Trustees discussed proposals from Green Visions of Northbrook, Lake Partners and North America Golf of Chicago. No decision was reached, as it is expected to be another two months before one of the finalists is selected. The golf course is on 208 acres of the 1,700 Grand-Hunt property lying south of Rte. 132, west of Hunt Club Rd., east of Rte. 45 and north of Washington St.

Exchangites will gather in Gurnee

GURNEE—Gurnee will be the center stage for Lake County Exchange Club members as the district convention will be held June 26-28 at the Gurnee Holiday Inn. Highlights include a motivational speech and naming of the district student-of-the-year. Awards will also be presented.

Residents: School draining our wells

LINCOLNSHIRE—A group of angry residents near Stevenson High School is claiming the school is hogging their water. Saying a well dug to water the school football field is drying up the residents' wells, residents want the county to block a second school well.

But Stevenson officials say the culprit is the regional drought and long-term drops in the water-table. "Their (residents') wells are going to go dry whether or not our well is pumping," said Stevenson Business Manager James Hintz. The school's wells are too much deeper than the residents' to affect them, school officials said.

Resident Don Terry said he is not convinced. "If you pull on something at the bottom, the top is going to follow," said Terry, whose wife Davida Terry is coordinating the residents.

Lake County Health Department officials have called a June 29 meeting between the parties on the matter. But even if the county had solid evidence that the school well were drawing from resident wells, county officials would most likely have to approve the proposed second well anyway, they said.

State aid holds key; board eyes budget

GRAYSLAKE—When state aid comes in and how much coupled with final enrollment figures for the 1992-93 school year are the two biggest factors for the Grayslake Dist. 46 budget. The school board approved a tentative budget with $6,677,620 in revenue and $6,817,235 in expenditures. The board will hold public hearings Aug. 3 and 17, although the place is yet to be determined because of construction.

Demo theme voices need for change

WAUKEGAN—Democrats have a new campaign slogan for the fall election—"A new view for '92." It is part of what new county party Chairman Terry Link calls "the need for new leadership to overcome the financial, environmental and societal slump resulting from years of Republican domination." He plans to make it a household phrase by the Nov. 2 general election. Party Vice Chairman Phil Strauss, who coined the slogan, said: "(Political) Leadership in this county needs to take a new direction. We think this slogan hits it right on the nose."

Antioch set to begin Centennial birthday

ANTIOCH—After over a year of planning and preparation, the celebration to honor Antioch's 100th year has arrived, ending the anxious anticipation of the entire community. Officially, the celebration begins at 10 a.m. on June 27 when Centennial Committee Special Events Chairman Claude LeMere kicks off the week with a special countdown, which will also signal the start of the Centennial Parade. Numerous other activities are scheduled after the parade, including PM&L's production "1776" at 8 p.m. The Antioch Fire Department's Fireman's Dance, scheduled for 9 p.m. at the Fire Department, will end what should be a most memorable day in Antioch, and set the pace for the rest of the week. The nine-day long Centennial celebration will include a fish boil, pig roast, corn and brat roast, Centennial field show, bingo, bands from all eras, fireworks, baseball tournament, and other special events. Information about any Centennial event can be obtained from the new headquarters for the Centennial Committee located on the corner of Main and Orchard streets in the old waterbed storeroom. From this site, according to Committee Co-chairperson Linda Pedersen, information about events and souvenirs can be obtained for all who stop by. Happy birthday, Antioch.

Talks go past issue of teacher layoffs

ROUND LAKE—After three months of stalemate on mass employee layoffs, parties in the Round Lake Area Schools teacher contract talks are finally moving to discussions of the contracts themselves. But not before teacher's union representatives threw another legal jab at the layoffs, charging the District 116 School Board with unfair labor practices. This is the third time in three months that teachers' representatives have used such a move—requesting a state labor-relations body to overturn layoffs of about 40 teachers pink-slipped in late March. The matter will go to a state hearing in Chicago July 2.

School Board President Robert Hubka said he fears this time, labor-board officials may order a full hireback. If that happens, the district would not have enough money to keep schools open for more than a few weeks next year, he said.

Fox Lake studies large annexation

FOX LAKE—Developer Jack Pease has taken the first step toward having his Sunset Lakes project taken into the Village of Fox Lake. Village department heads have studied the pre-annexation agreement submitted by Sunset Lakes and passed it on to the village attorney.

Village Clerk Susan McNally said the pre-annexation agreement is a very preliminary move toward adding the 140-acre parcel to the village. Pease's plan calls for approximately 400 residential units and a 100,000 to 120,000-square-foot shopping center on the land bordered by Rte. 12 and Fox Lake Road in McHenry County. Objections have been raised by Pistakee Highlands residents, who have said development of the land endangers both the environment and their pastoral way of life. Pease said he believes he's established a rapport with most of the area's residents.

Weed, weeds, weeds. It seems no matter what you do, there's always one lurking beneath the ground, waiting for you to turn your back for just a moment so it can rear its ugly head between your carefully cultivated plants and flowers.

Weeds thrive anywhere there is ample sunlight and room to grow. Among dense vegetation like a healthy, well maintained lawn, for example, weeds have a hard time establishing roots. However, in flower beds and other more open planting places, weeds set up housekeeping.

In the dark ages of lawn and garden care, people simply waited for weeds to appear, then got down on their hands and knees and pulled them out. Then people discovered that weeds couldn't grow beneath light-blocking plastic garbage bags. However, plastic blocked everything—weeds, air, water and led to soured soil, which damaged plant roots.

Now, thanks to a little scientific engineering, gardeners can beat weeds with the use of a landscape fabric, such as WeedBlock by Easy Gardener. A strong synthetic fabric with thousands of "microfunnels" molded into it, WeedBlock permits the necessary air and water to penetrate the fabric while simultaneously blocking the sunlight that encourages weeds.

Weeds waiting to rear its ugly head

Besides deterring weeds, landscape fabrics also significantly reduce the amount of water lost to evaporation. With drought becoming an increasing problem in many parts of the Lakeland area, these fabrics are being used for more than purely aesthetic purposes: they also conserve water.

Flexible and able to contour to any surface, landscape fabrics are easy to use and can give your yard a professionally landscaped look. Prepare your beds, then, lay overlapping strips of the fabric over the bed and secure with Fabric Pegs. Cut out holes or x's with scissors or a knife where you intend your plants to grow. Then, place plants directly through, into the soil.

Landscape fabric can also be used around existing trees, shrubs or perennial flower beds. To begin, clear away all surrounding weeds or grass. Place strips of fabric over the entire area, making sure it is as close to the plants as possible. Trim away any excess. Then, cover the fabric with an attractive layer of gravel, pebbles or wood nuggets.

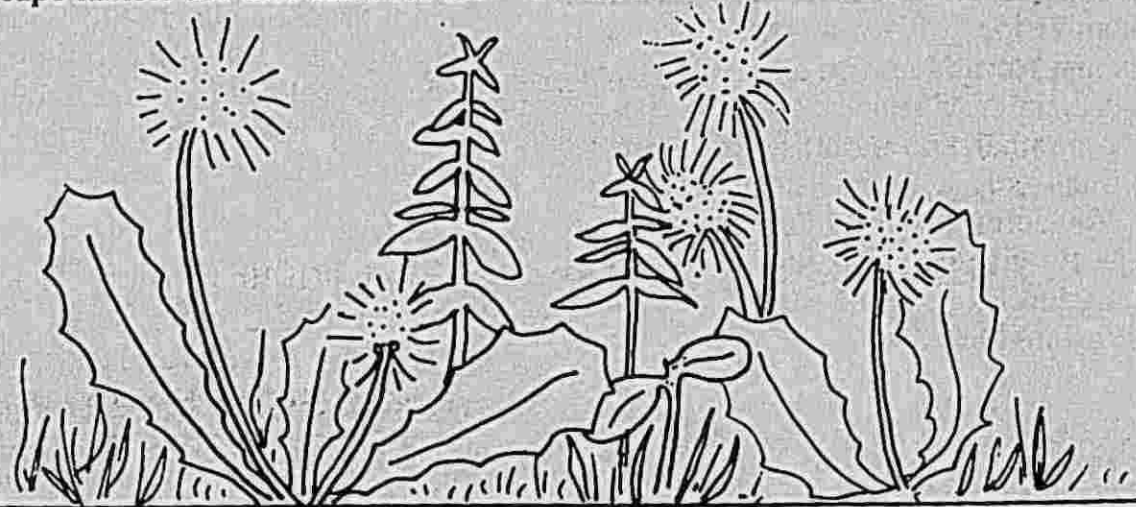

For vegetable gardens, where cool soil is an asset, there is also White WeedBlock. Black on the soil side and white on top, White WeedBlock has two functions: The white side reflects sunlight, aiding photosynthesis and warding off harmful insects that prey on the dark undersides of vegetable plants. Meanwhile, the dark side filters sunlight and blocks weed growth.

One of the many advantages of using landscape fabrics is that they don't harm plants or taint vegetables, unlike chemical weedkillers or herbicides. In fact, fabrics are a chemical-free way to control weeds. Landscape fabrics are also effective for a longer period of time than other alternatives, such as plastic. WeedBlock will last three years when uncovered and indefinitely when covered with a layer of organic mulch.

Weeds don't have to be a problem. Just one day spent laying down a landscape fabric can save Lakeland area homeowners countless hours and weekends applying weedkillers, herbicides, or pulling weeds by hand. Fabrics such as WeedBlock are readily available at lawn and garden centers, hardware stores and chain retailers.

Drought prompts quick lesson in proper watering

With another drought in the works for Lake County this summer, it's necessary to learn how to water wisely.

However, before the sprinklers are dragged out to water lawns, it's important to check the existing soil moisture levels. To do this, a soil probe is recommended. Soil probes can be purchased at specialized garden supply companies.

To use a soil probe, insert it six to 12 inches into the ground. For large trees, test the soil in several places underneath the canopy of the tree. Bring up a sample and rub the soil between your fingers. If it feels dry, it needs to be watered.

Frequent, light waterings do more harm than good. Fewer, longer waterings are better for plants because they encourage the roots to grow downward instead of upward toward the surface (shallow roots are more susceptible to heat and drying soils).

The following guidelines do not apply to every situation but explain various watering methods that can be used.

Hand watering

Watering trees by hand is a laborious and time-consuming process, however, it is sometimes the only option. When watering this way, turn on a hose so water comes out in a stream about the size of your little finger. For new installations, place the hose in several locations around the root ball of the tree and allow it to run for 20 to 30 minutes in each spot. Large, established shade trees (greater than six inch diameter) should be watered once a month to a 12 inch depth. With these trees, place the hose away from the trunk because the feeder roots are out around the edge of the tree canopy. For shrubs, allow the water to run 15 to 20 minutes at the base of each plant. After watering, check the soil again to be sure the moisture is eight inches deep.

Root feeding

To effectively water trees or shrubs purchase a deep root feeder from a garden center. With a root feeder, these depths can be reached with more control over the exact location of the water. To irrigate trees, insert the root feeder to a depth of eight inches into the ground. Do this in four to six locations beneath the edges of the tree canopy for existing trees and two to three locations next to the root ball for new installations. Allow the water to run under low pressure for 15 minutes in each location. For shrubs, insert the root feeder six to eight inches deep on either side of the plant, allowing it to soak for 15 minutes at each location.

Slow soaker hose

In shrub beds, a slow soaker hose can be used in place of a deep root feeder. This hose is usually black rubber or canvas and has several small holes in it, which allow it to "sweat" water. It can be snaked in bed areas for a long, effective watering requiring little attention and labor. (Note: do not confuse the slow soaker hose with the green "mist" hose that gets foliage wet and allows water to evaporate quickly).

Sprinklers

For a green lawn, sprinklers are the only solution if an irrigation system is not available. Should a sprinkler need to be purchased, buy an impact sprinkler head or a rotary sprinkler, both which spread water in a circular direction as opposed to an oscillating sprinkler that arcs back and forth. The impact or rotary sprinklers allow watering to larger and/or selective areas with more even coverage.

Various soil types and topography need to be watered differently. For example, water applied to heavy, compacted, clay soils will quickly run off and be wasted. If the plant material in this type of soil needs to be watered for one hour, water twice at 30 minutes each, instead of at one time.

Learning to water properly can save time, money and energy—all things to be considered during the summer drought.

Government spending too much

The thing that I need to get off my chest is that crazy government spending. At the purchasing, the uh, budget of the United States Government of the fiscal year of 1993 to see how well our government is spending, or stealing our money as I should say. For a good laugh, I looked at the office of government ethics. Their expenditures were 3.6 million dollars in 1991, 6.4 million in 1992, and it will be up to 8.6 million in 1993. Maybe they will get it right. Bye, now.

Driving Conditions

Hi! I think Lakeland Newspapers should print a weekly construction report on the conditions of the roads. Thanks.

Street vendors and dogs

Yes, I'm just calling to complain about all these road-side stands that have shown up all over the county here. It's a shame, it's beginning to look like Chicago's old Maxwell Street. It's just terrible that the town business men can't do something about it. They don't pay no taxes, they don't pay any fees, they don't pay rent to the property owners, maybe. And they sure are not giving any income to our people here. And that's about all I've got to say about that. Another thing is the neighbors with dogs. They have got three or four dogs, all they do is bark all day. There is nothing you can really do about it, unless you kill the dog. And that is beginning to interest me, in one respect. Thank you.

Signs would prevent wrecks

I would like to put in a complaint about the roadway construction being done in Grayslake. Besides reiterating the fact that construction is painfully slow, I would like to offer this suggestion. Whenever a strip of road is cut out and replaced with gravel, a warning sign should be posted. I was recently involved in an accident when a car I was riding in skidded after hitting a gravel patch and slammed into a trailer. A simple sign would have prevented this.

Thanks for park

I am an Antioch area resident who recently visited the new

Centennial Park with a friend, her children and my children. What a wonderful asset this park is to our community. What a wonderful way to enjoy some special family moments, while picnicking in the park. I do not know Ted and Dixie Axton personally, but I would like to thank them, all the volunteers, and the town of Antioch for making this dream become a reality. Thanks, people. Our town has truly benefitted because of all our your efforts.

Lakeland's face lift

Oh, I just wanted to call and say that what you did to the outside of your building at Lakeland looks great! New paint, new canopy, it really livens up the Grayslake area. Thank you.

Need winter park

Hi, I'm from Antioch! We have a wonderful new park. Now, in my opinion, Antioch needs something to go along with that park. The park is great for summer recreation. What about fall, spring, and winter time? In my opinion, Antioch could use an ice rink, a roller rink, something like that. Something for the kids to do on a year-round basis. Thank you.

Don't move Cook

It is appalling that anyone in Libertyville would consider moving the Cook Memorial Library to the south end of town. They might as well just shut down the whole downtown. It is bad enough that they moved the library. But they could consider doing something to add on to the flat roof of the library or build a bridge skyway over to the fire department and build on there. But to close down the library is a reprehensible idea!

Humans aren't endangered

This is in response to the person who said 'we should put babies being murdered in their mother's womb on the endangered species list.' Trees, plants and animals are just as valuable to this earth as humans are. Overpopulation happens to be one of the major environmental problems of our planet. So to say that unborn children should be on the endangered list is a very ignorant remark. If you are pro-life, that's fine with me because everyone is entitled to their own opinion. But, stick to the fact instead of using heart-wrenching slogans. It only makes you look stupid.

CAUSE asks village board for support on power line ban issue

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

The Antioch Village Board received an informational briefing about the proposed power lines for the region from a group of citizens wanting the board's support on the issue.

The Citizens Against UnSafe Electricity group, formed in an effort to prevent Commonwealth Edison from constructing 138KV power lines through Lake Villa, Loon Lake and West Milwaukee, came to Antioch looking for support, but might not receive any for another few weeks.

"They gave an outstanding, informative presentation," said Trustee Larry Hanson. "But, I can't speak for the board because we just received the information and we still have to decide what we're going to do."

The 25 minute presentation, which included a 61 page book of research information, was what CAUSE spokesman Jim Pierce called "for informational purposes only" and to garner support from all local governmental bodies affected by the proposed power lines.

With the Illinois Commerce Commission set to conduct public hearings in the next few months on this issue, the CAUSE group hopes to gain the support of as many area governmental bodies including State representatives John Matijevich (D-Waukegan) and Robert Churchill (R-Antioch) in an effort to persuade the ICC to prohibit Edison from constructing the potentially dangerous over-head power lines near homes, schools and other gathering places.

"We don't think Edison gave the village all the information it had when it said that burying the power lines would be much safer," said Pierce to the Antioch Board.

Added Loon Lake resident Mike Summer, "It is an issue about public safety. We consider Antioch to be a major player. We need your support."

CAUSE, which began as a smaller, less organized group by another name last summer, has been continually gaining support and strength through various public meetings designed to inform the public about the dangers of EMFs from high tension power lines.

"We're not saying we don't want electricity. We just want it done right," said Lake County Board Member Suzi Schmidt, one of the first political leaders to give support to the group.

Despite the claims of both the CAUSE group and Commonwealth Edison, who plans to build the lines, there is some debate on how unsafe high-voltage transmission lines are to the human body.

CAUSE members say they have documented evidence that links the transmission line to leukemia and cancer, especially in children. Edison states that no real evidence to that conclusion exists and Lake County needs these power lines to keep up with future demand.

The Illinois Commerce Commission, the governing body for utilities in Illinois, has tentatively scheduled four public forums on the subject of the Lake Villa lines. The dates and locations for the 7 p.m. meetings are: July 20 at the College of Lake County, July 29 at the Lindenhurst Village Hall, Aug. 4 at the Zion Village Hall and Aug. 10 at the Antioch Senior Center.

"We all agree that power is needed to keep up with growth in the region, but a safer alternative must be found because the technology is there to do it," said Pierce.

100 Club announces scholarship winners

The 100 Club has announced the recipients of its college scholarships for the 1992-93 academic year. The organization, whose primary role is to assist families of public safety officers killed in the line of duty, has awarded four $1,000 college scholarships.

"We're pleased to offer these scholarships to the children of public safety officers," said Dennis Mudd, 100 Club president and chairman of Joyce Brothers Allied. "We're fortunate to have the resources to extend our assistance to officers' families. This year's group of scholarship winners is very deserving."

Winners of the 1992 100 Club scholarships are Kimberly Rompala of Grayslake, Deanna Van Patten of Antioch, Jennifer Wickersheim of Harvard and Kathryn Wilkins of North Chicago.

Rompala, a student at Warren Twp. High School, is active in choir, National Honor Society, Phi Theta Kappa, Sigma Lambda Sigma, and volunteers at a homeless shelter in DeKalb. Rompala will attend the University of Illinois, Champaign, where she will major in biology and ecology.

Van Patten, a student at Antioch High School, is active in choir, the school newspaper, the pom-pom squad, National Honor Society and student council. Van Patten will major in mass communication at Morningside College in Sioux City, Iowa.

Wickersheim attends Alden-Hebron High School.

Deanna Van Patten

Wilkins is a student at Woodlands Academy in Lake Forest where she serves as an officer in the student council and is a member of the National Honor Society and SADD. Wilkins also has volunteered to paint low income housing and is a member of Students for Environmental Art. She plans to attend Northwestern University in Evanston.

Selection was based on character, academic record, leadership abilities, school and community activities, honors, financial need, work experience and career goals. Citizens Scholarship Foundation of America, an independent, non-profit student aid service organization, selected the scholarship recipients.

Dependent children of Lake County police, fire, (including volunteer) and sheriff's department employees who are full-time students enrolled or planning to enroll at accredited colleges, universities, vocational, or trade schools during the 1992 academic year were eligible to apply.

Plan ahead

The ACHS Student Assistance Program will be sponsoring their "First Annual Peddlers Craft Fair." It will be held in the ACHS gym on Saturday, Oct. 24, but it is definitely not too early for local crafters to reserve a table to display and sell their wares. This function promises to be quite extensive and exciting and offers an excellent opportunity for arts and crafts of all types to advertise their specialties, take orders and sell items right on the spot. Rain or shine, the function will go on because all craft tables will be under the "big top" of the gymnasium. The Student Assistance Program sponsors "ALPHA" (leadership program), "ACE" (athletes committed to excellence), and "LIFEGUARD." The committee for the Peddlers Craft Fair promises excellent advertising to bring in loads of customers. Please reserve your space ASAP by contacting Cathy at (708)395-5857. Remember "The Early Bird Catches the Worm"—October may seem like a long way off, but I've been told that many crafting slots have already been sold. Please help this worthwhile student program by selling your specialty items at ACHS on Oct. 24.

Antioch Jaycees

The newly installed officers of the Antioch Jaycees are Donna Schmehl (president), Ken Bergl (membership vice-president), Marlene Olsen (chapter management), Joel Johnson (community development), Tim Keefer (individual development), and Mark Oechler (treasurer). For more information concerning tickets for the circus or how to become a member of the Antioch Jaycees, please contact Donna Schmehl at (414)877-2924.

This message was brought to you from The Lizard, readers and your many new Antioch friends!

4th of July

The next holiday is the 4th of July. Please remember that fireworks can be extremely dangerous. Plan to visit the well-planned and supervised public fireworks displays in your local area rather than conducting your own. If you do get the little ones sparklers to enjoy, please watch them carefully as they too get terribly hot during burning. Have fun at your local parades and also enjoy your family BBQs and picnics. After the excitement settles, remember to call "The Lizard" with those summer tidbits.

Hometown Goodies

Mass entertainment will be furnished by the McNulty Irish Dancers. The entertainment, sandwiches and beverages will be in the church hall which is located in the lower level of the church.

To accommodate the large number of participants, the parade route is longer than usual. It starts at Antioch Community High School and heads north on Main St., as usual, but it continues to North Ave.

From North Ave., the parade moves onto Anita St., then ends at Centennial Park.

Among the main attractions will be six Midwest Drum and Bugle Corps bands who will compete later in the afternoon at the high school athletic field in the Midwest Drum and Bugle Corps Competition.

Regional Superintendent seeks applications for board vacancy

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

The Grass Lake School Board opening, vacant since May 12, is now the responsibility of Regional School Superintendent Edward Gonwa to fill because the Grass Lake School Board was unable to select a replacement in a 30 day period.

The opening, the result of the resignation of School Board Secretary Julianne Groh last month, could have been filled by the Board if it could have agreed on a replacement from one of the six original candidates, according to Grass Lake School Superintendent Ruth Bill. Now, the Board must wait to see who Regional Superintendent Gonwa selects for them in the next few weeks.

"We had six applicants, but the Board could not make a decision," said Bill. "Possibly some of those people may still be interested in the position."

According to Gonwa though, as of June 24, his office has received only one application and only two telephone inquiries about the position.

Gonwa plans to take additional applications for the position until July 2 and interview those candidates during the week of July 6 at his office in Waukegan.

"Hopefully, we will have someone selected by the next board meeting on July 14," said Bill.

Any person that is interested in being considered for appointment to this position must be a citizen of the United States, of the age of 18 years or over, a resident of the state and territory of the district for at least one year, a registered voter as provided in the general election law, and is not a school trustee or a school treasurer.

Interested applicants are requested to send a letter and short resume to: Edward Gonwa, Lake County Regional Superintendent of Schools, 18 N. County Street, Room A-904, Waukegan, Ill., 60085-4362 before July 2.

ANTIOCH

Suspended license

An Antioch driver, who police knew was driving on a suspended license, was arrested and charged by Antioch Police for driving on a suspended license on June 18 at 7:45 p.m.

According to police reports, Dean A. Vocke, 26, of 419 Donin Dr., received a July 15 court date at 9 a.m. in Grayslake to defend the charge.

Bird hunting

An Antioch youth, after attempting to shoot at several wild birds with an air rifle, was arrested and charged with illegal use of an air rifle on June 16.

According to police reports, police received a call about a young male subject shooting at some pigeons from the bays at an Antioch automobile repair shop. After a period of time, police arrested Jake E. Morgan, 17, of 409 Orchard, who had possession of a Daisy Power Line CO2 powered rifle.

Morgan received a July 29 court date at 9 a.m. in Grayslake.

Police Beat

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law

Geese lifted

A home on the 200 block of Lakewood reported to Antioch Police on June 17 that an unidentified female subject took a $100 ceramic lawn ornament from their property and moved several others to the lawn across the street.

According to police reports, two ceramic geese were taken from the lawn during the night of June 16 by the unidentified female, who was seen in the yard by a watchful neighbor but not caught by residents or the police. The geese are reportedly doing fine and are back in their owner's front lawn again after a resident down the street found the geese in his yard.

Disorderly conduct

A Fox Lake man, who was an employee at the Antioch Taco Bell, lost his job and was arrested on June 18 after harassing and attempting to fight with another employee.

According to police reports, Matthew B. Smego, 20, of 15 Covington, Fox Lake, began to yell at another employee of the restaurant located on Rte 173 in Antioch. After trying to engage in a fight with the employee, Smego was asked to leave the property by the shift manager. Smego told police that it was just a "personality clash" and admitted to drinking while on his shift.

Smego received a July 15 court date at 9 a.m. in Grayslake after posting a $50 bond upon his release.

DUI

Bernardino Perez, 39, of 204 Baldwin, Waukegan, was arrested and charged by Antioch Police on June 12 for driving under the influence, improper language and failure to signal.

According to police reports, the police received a call of a possible drunk driver who ran off the road, went through a red light and sat at an intersection when the light was green. Perez failed field sobriety testing and refused to take chemical or breath tests to determine blood alcohol content.

Perez received a July 7 court date at 9 a.m. in Waukegan.

Theft

A 63 year-old Lake Villa woman has been charged with theft on June 12 after allegedly placing two items in her purse without paying for them.

According to Antioch Police reports, Bette J. Schneider, of 25048 Buena Park Ave., Lake Villa, was arrested and charged with theft of a $3.83 piece of meat and a $1.38 package of frozen vegetables when several employees witnessed Schneider allegedly place the items in her purse and go through check out area without paying for them.

Schneider, who told police she placed them in her purse so she would not get the items confused with some other items she was purchasing for someone else, just forgot she put them there and didn't intend to steal the items.

Schneider received a July 29 court date in Grayslake to defend the charge.

Water systems recognized for maintaining fluoride levels

Certificates of Recognition are being awarded to 225 local water systems by the Illinois Dept. of Public Health (IDPH) and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA).

"These commendations are in recognition of each water supply's success with consistent maintenance of the required levels of fluoride in drinking water throughout 1991," said Dr. John R. Lumpkin, state health director. Lumpkin explained that fluoride levels of public water supplies are monitored each month by IEPA, and, in many communities, the levels fluctuate due to operational difficulties and do not always meet the required standards.

"Compliance with fluoride levels required in the state's fluoridation law is important to the citizens because of the valuable health benefits," Lumpkin said. He said that fluoridation reduces dental caries (cavities) 20 percent to 40 percent, and the benefits are extended to everyone in the community regardless of age or income.

Another 167 communities received an honorable mention for nearly reaching the 100 percent level during 1991.

Of a total of 1,909 public water supplies in Illinois, 225 earned commendations for maintaining required levels of fluoride throughout 1991.

Local communities receiving awards were Barrington, Fox Lake, Grayslake, North Chicago, Park City, Round Lake Park, Riverwoods and Wauconda.

Lack-luster reasons

The Illinois Chamber of Commerce, a bastion of conservatism, is opposed to term limitation of public officials.

The Chamber says term limitation would deprive citizens from retaining intelligent, experienced and proven leaders in state government. As the state-wide organization stated, in the zealotry to "throw the rascals out," term-limitation advocates would have society discard hard-working, dedicated and able leaders.

Bullfeathers!

From our observation, the voting public is fed up with locked-in incumbents who are more concerned with reelection than governing. We also happen to think voters are fed up with the cozy relationship lobbying groups like the Chamber maintain with legislative "lifers."

Proponents of the status quo should come up with more imaginative and valid reasons for opposing term limitation than text book opposition.

We can't argue with the viewpoint expressed by the Illinois Chamber encouraging voter participation to deal with ineffective or wrong thinking officials with financial support, volunteer work, and the ballot box on election day. That's important, but it's only part of the way. The next step is term limitation. What are we waiting for?

Antioch: after 100 years

With half a hundred municipalities dotting the Lake County landscape, village birthdays are rather commonplace. An uncommon birthday celebration, though, is taking place in Antioch where 100 years is being observed.

Through Sunday, July 5, when a big fireworks show will cap a week-long celebration, Antioch will be turning the clock back a long way in observance of its centennial. The focus will be on "the way it used to be," small town Americana that is our heritage but is almost forgotten in the hectic and often frantic lifestyles of today.

So Antioch merchants will be donning old-fashioned garb for a downtown sale, games will be played, there will be contests, lots of music, flag waving, socializing, even a circus, which Lakeland Newspapers is co-sponsoring with the Jaycees. For old-timers, the Antioch centennial will be a nostalgic trip back to their youth. For young-timers, the celebration will be like stepping into a time warp.

The welcome mat is out for friends and visitors to join the fun. Sounds like a rollicking good time. Happy one hundred, Antioch.

PADS growing

When it comes to public service volunteers, workers with the Connection Telephone Crisis organization that operates the PADS shelters are hard to beat.

For the 1991-92 season recently concluded, PADS provided 15,238 nights of shelter and 47,277 meals for homeless citizens of Lake County during 243 cold weather days. Volunteers manned shelters, prepared meals, did laundry, cleaned up and made the homeless feel welcome. Shelter use increased by 5,430, a growth rate of 52 percent.

Churches of all denominations are involved with the shelter program.

Persons from all walks of life participate in the massive humanitarian effort.

PADS officials already are laying the groundwork for the fall opening, gathering volunteers, supplies and monetary contributions. One of the major efforts, according to Director John Ames, will focus on establishing a bus system that provides transportation for the homeless from their daytime locations to the various shelters located around the county.

You can volunteer to help or donate by calling the PADS headquarters in Libertyville at 362-3381. It's a rewarding way to help people in need.

Gangs not being ignored

Your June 12 editorial, "Gang Disinterest," raises a good point about community involvement in gang problems. I applaud Rep. Frederick for conducting a public hearing on gang issues for all of Lake County.

Your conclusion that low turnout can be equated with public indifference is, however, unwarranted. I would have been present had I learned in advance about hearing as would others if more widespread word had been given about the forum.

You asked when was the last time any municipal body took up gang problems as an item in public business. It was just two months ago that Wauconda Community Unit School Dist. 118's Board of Education adopted a formal policy on gang and gang-related activities.

This proactive statement makes it clear that gang activity has no place in our schools.

While Wauconda may not now have a gang problem, we all must face the negative influence which gang activities could have on our schools and in our communities. Lakeland Newspapers could do the public a service by correctly pointing out that steps are being taken throughout Lake County to address gang activities. Wauconda Dist. 118's recent policy is just on such positive step.

Back District

The residents of Wildwood have a wonderful opportunity to enhance the value of their property.

The Wildwood Park District is negotiating with Mr. Rule to purchase his property for a new park. This new park, located right on Gages Lake, would be of tremendous benefit to all residents of Wildwood.

The park district is hoping to help finance through the sale of three small parks, which are seldom used, and are of little value to the community as a whole. They include three lots on the channel on Lake Shore Drive and three lots behind apartments on Old Plank Road. If the district isn't able to sell the parks, it would be necessary for a tax referendum to pass (Continued on next page)

Teen opinions less surprising than expected

by BILL SCHROEDER

If you have or had teenagers in your household, it should come as no surprise that kids think about things a lot differently than their parents. And they think for themselves. And how!

They have opinions on just about everything, from sex and sports to partying and politics.

When teens speak anonymously, more than half admit that they've cheated a few times on exams. Still, 74.9 percent say they wouldn't pay someone to take their SATs or ACTs even if they would not get caught.

Nearly 40 percent of young people consider Magic Johnson to be a pretty careless dude even though they admire his basketball playing ability. About one-fifth of teens feel Magic got an unlucky break in his entanglement with the AIDS virus. A rather surprising 16.3 percent of young people say he had it coming--the sleaze factor.

These findings and others are part of a poll of students at 100 high schools nationwide conducted by the Bedford Kent Group, a New York marketing firm. One hundred persons at each school were polled. For the statistical minded, a random sampling of 2,400 responses were tabulated.

Some of the responses showed how much kids today differ from their parents and grandparents, like the 88.3 percent who think it's OK for a girl to ask a guy for a date. For my generation, girls asked once a year on Sadie Hawkins Day. Teens are dating frequently (39.7 have dates between two and five people in the past 12 months. That sounds like there still might be quite a few "wall flowers." Or nerds? Maybe that expression is out of style already. One expression of youth that makes me cringe--"it sucks"--to describe something awful, still is standard fare and is used by 66.5 percent of teenagers.

The poll substantiated that kids are having sex at a younger age (median age 14). Here's another generational factor: The survey found that the decision to have sex is peer pressure/popularity (30 percent), followed by lust (28.6 percent) and curiosity (23.6 percent). Doubtlessly, there was less peer pressure two and three decades ago. The adventuresome just went out and did "it."

Cliques still loom large in the minds of young people. 26.5 percent consider themselves preppies; 23.3 percent consider themselves jocks, and 5.5 consider themselves metal heads. The poll did not ask how many of the kids consider themselves brains.

Nearly three-quarters of the high school students feel they are getting a good education. Only 27.1 percent said they watch TV less than five hours a week. Are today's kids lazy? 69.1 percent said they do not think community service should be mandatory. 36.4 percent have no curfew. Forty-two percent have to be home by midnight or before.

Some of the poll results are surprising; more are pretty predictable. Draw your own conclusions about the younger generation.

BUSINESS LADY---An Ingleside man received a nice Father's Day gift because of the ingenuity and business acumen of his nine-year-old daughter. The young lady went into business selling hand-painted rocks so she could buy a present for her dad. She marketed the rocks door-to-door. I've got some neat paper weights now because I couldn't resist her sales pitch. What else can you do with colored rocks?

FIREWORKS---If you have access to a boat on the Chain O' Lakes, Mineola Bay will be the place to be Friday evening, July 3 for a resumption of the spectacular over-the-water holiday fireworks display. Impresario Pete Jakstas Sr. promises a rewarding experience.

NEW CAREER---At 84, Bill Zimmerman is thinking about starting a new career. Right on, Bill. For 25 years, Bill was a catalog copy writer in Chicago. Then he and his wife, Loleta, started a highly successful glassware business. When the Zimmerman's retired, they settled in a Lincolnshire town house.

Bill chuckles over the thought that the town house "outgrew them," so they relocated to a smaller town home in Gurnee. Now that they're settled in, Zimmerman is considering resumption of his writing work with an eye toward possible syndication of columns on life and times.

A clew to Zimmerman's approach to life is his observation on the classic pro-life, pro-choice debate. "I think a lot of people really are both. Who isn't for life? Yet freedom of choice is important." OK, Bill. Let's see what you've got tucked away in your typewriter.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY---Pop celebrated Father's Day with a victory over pesky varmints who have been devastating a petunia patch. A peanut butter-baited humane trap recommended by a friend failed to discourage the hungry critter. But a sack of mothballs saturated with bleach stuffed in a burrow did wonders to curb the varmint's appetite. Shades of Caddy Shack. I felt like Bill Murray. I'm indebted to Lake County Animal Control which recommended the combination of mothballs and ammonia. Bleach was substituted for the ammonia and apparently works just as well. I think my tormentor was a wood chuck, but that's not certain.

in November. If there is a referendum, I urge all residents to support it.

It is my understanding that if the park district isn't able to purchase his property, Mr. Rule will sell it to developers. This would be a tragedy for all of Wildwood.

It is important for all the residents to back the park district in their endeavor to improve the quality of life in Wildwood.

of abortion on demand.

In a recent (January 1992) Wirthlin Poll 63 percent of Americans opposed spending tax dollars for transplant research that uses tissue from induced abortions. Americans want limits to abortion on demand. So why does Mr. Porter think now is the time to begin collaborating with the very industry that performs and profits from them?

Abortion collaboration

Editor:

Imagine my surprise to find John Porter voted to lift the N.I.H. ban on using aborted babies tissue for research. The vote lifting the ban reveals some very interesting but little known facts.

The Congressional vote to fund abortion-dependent fetal tissue research gives the abortion industry something it has never been able to achieve on its own—respectability.

Harvard Law Professor Lawrence Tribe testified that medical demand for fetal tissue gives Congress Constitutional Authority to pass the so-called "Freedom of Choice Act" to ensure a nationwide policy

Frightened by Bush

Editor:

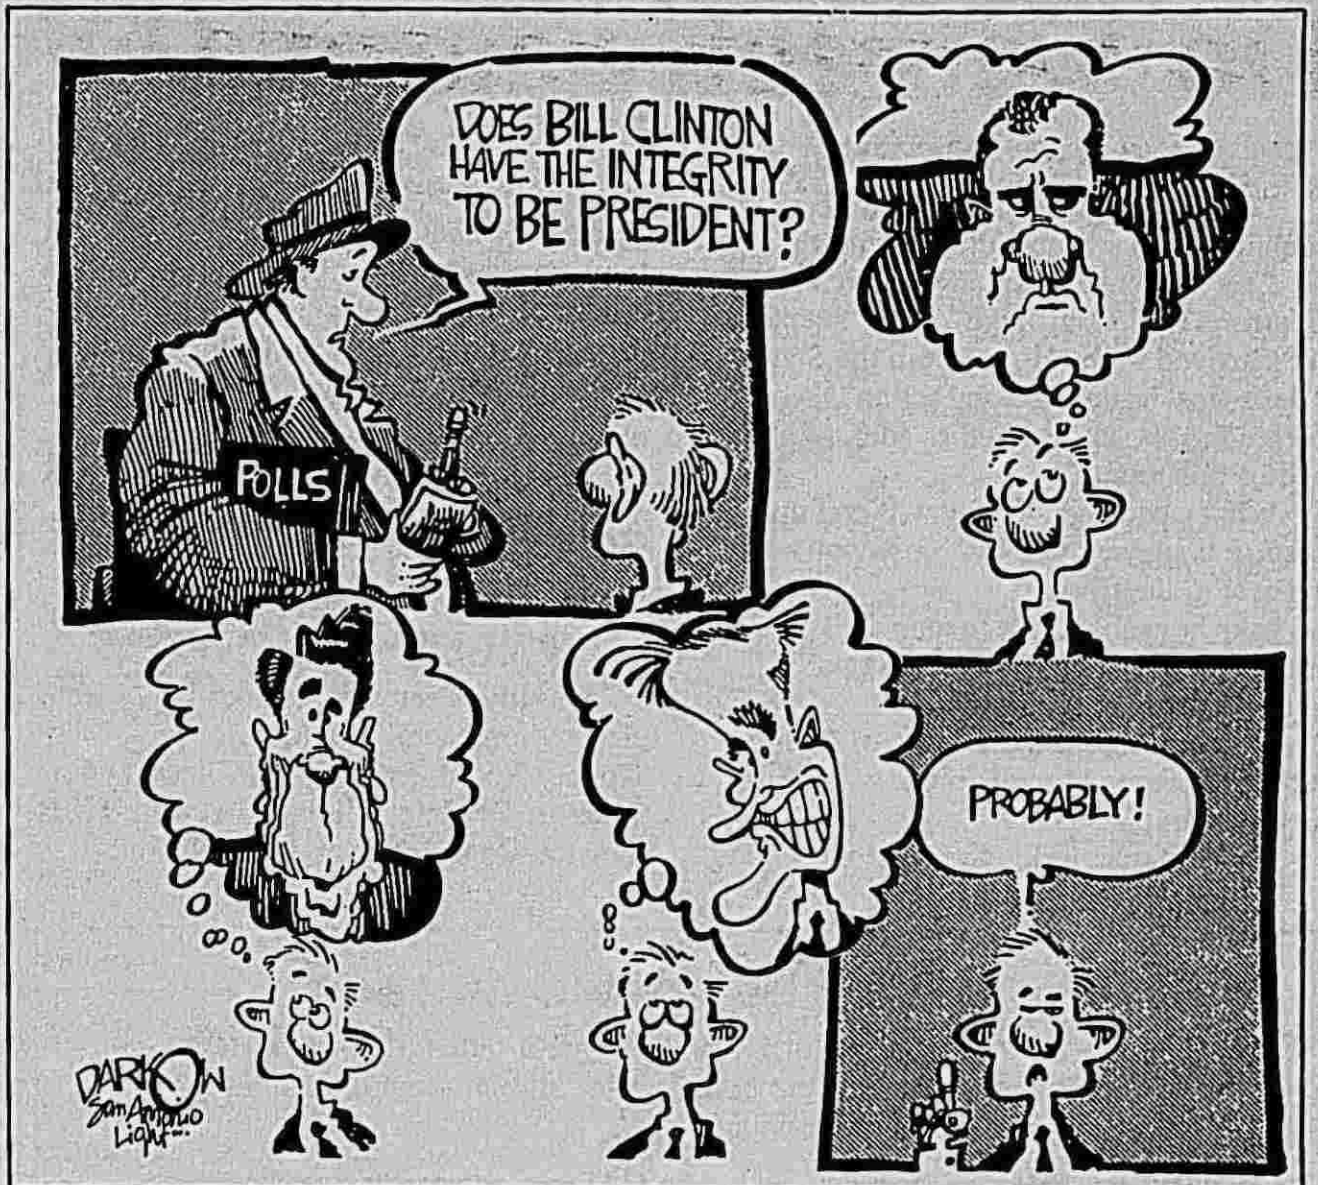

The Bush administration cover up of the billions of dollars given to Saddam Hussein is at last receiving the media attention it deserves.

The irony of our tax dollars fueling the Persian Gulf war is finally hitting the public in the eye. For over a year a federal investigation has not gotten off the ground thanks to the Bush administration's restraints on information regarding money given to Iraq.

Ted Kopel reminded us recently on Night Line the extent of the problem. We witnessed government officials admitting our government also provided sophisticated sonar equipment used to detect military opponents miles away.

President Bush may be held responsible not only for the loss of billions of dollars in foreign aid given to Iraq, but for the loss of lives and despoiled Persian waters sacrificed because of a dictator's madness.

Bush however, will probably not be impeached or imprisoned for his role in the Iraq tragedy. No, he will run for president. Not only will he run for re-election, he is using tax dollars to find a loophole in the constitution to eliminate his rival, Ross Perot, from becoming president, even if people vote him in.

Perot rightly put the blame for the banking and savings and loan industries financial woes where it belongs; at the president's feet. During a recent appearance on the Today show, Perot shot a beam of light on one of the main economic problems in this country. Small businesses are unable to obtain credit; thus insuring the continuance of the depressed state of affairs afflicting our country. Without the creation of new jobs, the unemployment rate will continue its climb upwards. Perot reminds us that as vice-president, Bush mishandled the deregulation of the banking and savings and loan industries. "He (Bush) just doesn't understand business," said Perot.

It is frightening to think we may reelect a man who fueled a needless war, turned his back on important environmental issues by opening up millions of acres of wetlands for development and national forest lands for deforestation, weakened our economy by incompetent handling of the banking industry, and tells the people, "I have nothing to apologize for," as he said in a recent interview regarding his negative stance on the Rio DeJaniero global environmental conference.

The people have a chance to agree or not agree with him in November.

Do we really need these laws?

SCARY SPRINGFIELD

Do you wonder what our state representatives and senators do in Springfield?

Last week, said state Rep. Dick Klemm (R-Crystal Lake), more than 200 bills arrived in the House from the Senate. These must be debated and action taken before the two august bodies adjourn at the end of this month.

What a package. Many will end up costing taxpayers money. Most won't make it to the floor.

Like how about one to require Braille reading and writing for all functionally blind students in the state?

Or requiring the state Dept. of Public Health to prepare and distribute a brochure on breast implants?

Under another bill, if a Medicaid recipient needs an organ transplant and no hospital certified by the Dept. of Public Aid can or does perform this, the recipient can go elsewhere—at our expense.

And if you want to take up to eight hours a year to visit your children in the classroom, the employer and school system must allow it.

This sounds like we need a law to outlaw more laws from being passed in Springfield.

TALES OF TERRY

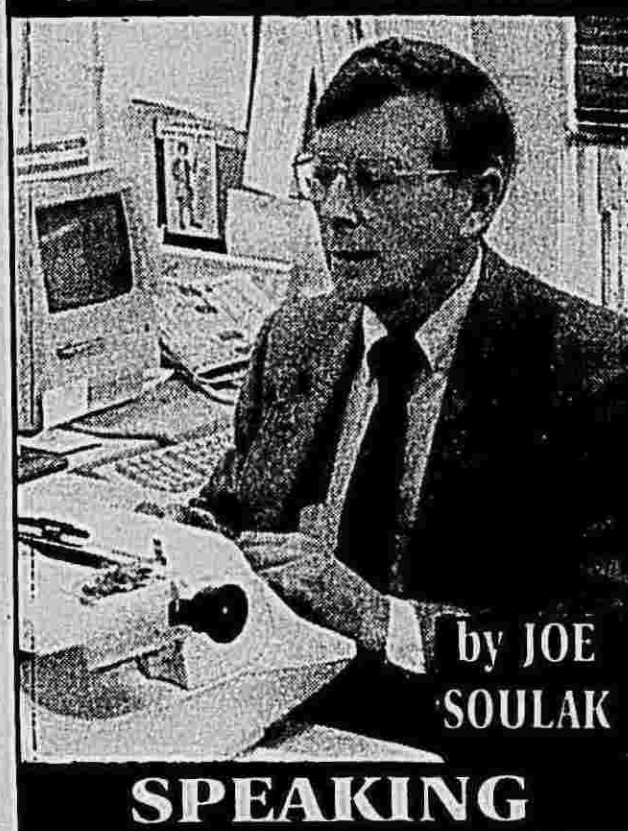

David Terry, remember her? She's the environmental candidate for the County Board last spring in Dist 18 who lives in Prairie View. Vernon Hills Trustee Pam Newton won that one.

Where's Terry today? Teaching the humanities (Spanish, communications) as a sub at Stevenson High School. And recuperating. She fell down the slippery oak stair case in her home while in stockings. Her right arm will be in a cast at least three more weeks.

Oh, she's been converted, so to speak. A Republican candidate in March, she's supporting the Democrat hopeful in Dist. 18 on the November ballot. Getting Terry's vote will be Liz Fayer of Buffalo Grove.

Why? "Because Newton is tied to Robert Depke (County Board chairman)," she explained. "He represents everything from politics to pro-growth I despise. If he is like that, can Newton be far behind?"

stand corrected. The man who has the audacity to run against incumbent 10th Dist. GOP Congressman John Porter is named Michael Kennedy. A rising legal eagle at a prestigious Chicago law firm he promises to make this election interesting. Can this first-time candidate defeat the seemingly unbeatable Porter? "Everyone has to win their first election, even Porter," he said of the congressman's initial run for the Illinois House when he served in that body. ★★★★★ KEN-NILWORTH—Hoping to turn lawyer Rich Williamson into the next U.S. Senator is a Washington, D.C., political operative named Tim Meyer. His title is campaign manager. One of his claims to fame is serving as an aide to Congressman Ronald Machtley (R-Rhode Island). Meyer had check-writing privileges. Together they had 21 overdrafts in the House check-writing scandal. ★★★★★ LIBERTYVILLE—Mayor JoAnn Eckmann said she has not made an announcement about her re-election plans for next spring. "I'm interested and thinking about it, but haven't said one way or another," said the classy brunette nearing the end of her first term.

WHAT A BARGAIN

Round Lake Park is hell bent on adding a lakefront development of 45-plus homes called Lakeview Estates.

Area residents are opposed only because it will be reached via a one-time Indian path widened to a 20-foot street aptly named Indian Trail. A different access is okay, they say.

Mayor Cole Akin is unbending. He says Round Lake Park needs its first $130,000 to $180,000 homes for image purposes. He also likes the new taxes they will bring.

A idealistic trustee named Mike Stagner says Round Lake Park needs Lakeview Estates for some vague reason called "affordable housing." That off-the-wall comment came a day or so after attending a meeting on the topic.

TOUGH ON TEENS

Teens are avoiding Lindenhurst like the plague, if you believe Trustee Wilma Wetzel.

She said they won't drive through the village, muchless, stop here. Why? For fear of being stopped by police.

She calls it "harassment."

Police Chief Richard Jablonski says his men are only doing their job. A former Chicago policeman, he just won an extension of his initial four-year contract.

Be alert for downed lines

The average person can be a big help to Commonwealth Edison in meeting its responsibility of providing a reliable supply of electricity at the lowest possible cost in a manner consistent with environmental standards.

By being observant and reporting abnormal conditions to the company, one can help avert a possible service interruption—perhaps to their own home or neighborhood—or correct a potentially dangerous situation.

Any time a downed power line is seen, report it immediately. Failure to do so could result in serious injury or even death. Never touch a fallen line, and caution children to stay away, too.

Edison has a substantial amount of equipment mounted outdoors and protected by fences and locks. Give a call if broken or missing locks or sections of fence are observed. Children are curious and could wind up hurting themselves or damaging equipment that could cause a service interruption.

Broken meters are something else that should be called the company's attention.

This list is by no means all-inclusive. In a system as large as Edison's covering more than 11,000 square miles in northern Illinois, equipment problems can and do occur. Obviously, company employees can't be everywhere, so that's why Edison counts on members of the public to keep an eye out for trouble situations and report them by calling Edison's 24-hour toll-free number—1-800-EDISON-1 (1-800-334-7661).

If persons do report problems, chances are they'll be helping themselves and their neighbors as much as the utility.

EPA awards $84 million

US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Region five has awarded more than $84 million to environmental programs in Illinois during the second quarter of FY 92. The funds will be used for new and ongoing projects.

Environmental Protection Agency. The grant is capital for the Illinois Water Pollution Control Revolving Fund, which will replace the Federal construction grants program.

Illinois EPA received grants for several other programs as well, including hazardous waste management ($3,552,466), ground and surface water pollution control ($1,501,570), public water system supervision ($1,158,525), and the leaking underground storage tank trust fund ($1,863,490).

EPA also awarded grants to Illinois Department of Agriculture ($667,715), Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission ($75,000), and the Village of Shipman ($2,268).

Kids sit still for cut and style

by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ
Lakeland Newspapers

Trauma. Getting a lock of hair cut more than an inch can cause emotional distress. The experience has sent countless adults and children running home to wash out the look, if possible, when it wasn't everything hoped for.

Aimed at reducing the anxiety children have about getting a trim or having a razor taken to a sideburn, Kuts 'N Play at River Tree Court in Vernon Hills is a bright and colorful place where kids actually will sit still for a haircut. The salon specializes in servicing children, but also handles adults. Permanents are offered, but not hair-coloring.

The big attraction is the indoor playground, complete with a Firepower pinball machine, slide, funny mirror, giant Legos and the bed of balls, which every child in the place ran to first.

"It's really different than any other place. I've never found a place where you can play," said 9-year-old Deborah Jones of Lincolnshire. "This place is really more for kids. I like burying myself in the balls and throwing the balls," she said.

It was from Deborah that her mother, Susan Gordon, learned about Kuts 'N Play. "My kids wanted to come here, and we thought we'd try it," she said.

Sandra Nisson of Long Grove brings her children to the salon as much for the convenience it affords as the fun it provides. "I don't have to make an appointment," she said. "Sometimes, with kids, you can't make appointments because of schedules—napping and things like that.

"They have a play area where you can bring both kids at one time. One can play and the other can get a haircut. It's great," she said. Her son has been a customer since he was six months old. Now he's 2.

The stylists, she said, are good with children. "When you take children to an adult place they treat the children as adults, and the children aren't adults," she said.

Three-year-old Christopher Lagor's mother, Mary, of Waukegan comes to Kuts 'N Play not only for the care, attention and conscientious professionalism each operator offers but, well, Christopher likes to sit on the duck and watch cartoons and shows provided just for his amusement.

"Some kids go through tantrums," before getting their hair cut, said Diana Bagley of Elk Grove, an operator at the salon. "They are afraid of the scissors. With kids, it's a little harder to cut their hair because you have to move them and stuff. Video takes their attention away from getting their hair cut," she said.

Parents are not encouraged to go into the salon area with their children. "Most of the time, it works a lot easier with the children. We have some parents come in who say 'they'll never sit there by themselves' and when we're done, they're amazed that the child sat there. We eliminate the aura of going to the barber shop—we make it fun," said co-owner David Igliori.

His wife, Judy, a hairstylist, originated the concept of combining a playground with a salon after searching for a franchise to open. Now the Igloris are franchising their own business.

Initially from the Chicago suburbs of Wilmette and Elmwood Park, the Igloris two years ago moved to Orlando, Fla. where after a year opened the first Kuts 'N Play. Drawn back to the area by family, and because of bad economic times in Florida, they closed up shop and relocated in Vernon Hills. "It's a little more concentrated with children," David said. Another store is planned for the Skokie area.

Cuts for children up to 23 months are $6; from ages 2 to 14, $8; and for adults $10. Trimming bangs only costs $4.50. A full style, which includes a shampoo, blow dry, and cut costs $13 for children and $15 for adults. If a set is required with either a curling iron or rollers, a full styles costs $16 for children and $18 for adults. Permanent waves or hair straightening start at $30 for children and $35 for adults.

For more information, call 680-KUTS. Kuts 'N Play is located at 701 N. Milwaukee Ave., Suite 324 in Vernon Hills' River Tree Court shopping center.

Cradle to college—making gifts to minor children, grandchildren

by B. MIDDLETON,
J. MONTGOMERY

Is it a good idea to give your money away?

Yes, if you can afford it. But what are the tax consequences of these gifts—to the gift giver (the donor) and to the gift recipient or beneficiary (the donee)?

One standard estate planning suggestion we give our clients is to make "annual exclusion gifts." Each donor has the right to gift up to $10,000 per donee per year, without incurring any gift tax by reason of such a transfer. A husband and wife can "split" gifts and give $20,000 per donee per year.

Very large sums of money can be transferred in this fashion: For example, if a husband and wife have two children and four grandchildren (6 donees X $20,000), $120,000 can be gifted in a single year without paying any gift tax. If gifts are planned in December and January, $240,000 can be transferred without any adverse gift or estate tax consequences. Add the spouses of the children and grandchildren, and almost half a million dollars can be gifted.

Thus, we often suggest a "gift giving program" to our clients for several reasons. First, money transferred during their lifetime will not be in their estate at death. This can mean an estate tax savings of as much as $5,500 on each $10,000 gift completed during your lifetime.

Second, the income earned on the assets transferred may be taxable to the donee. This can result in income-tax shifting, and may save money for the donor-at least more will be going to the donee instead of Uncle Sam. The tax results of shifting the income must be carefully analyzed before we can say that the gift has actual income tax benefits to the donor.

First, unearned income (that is interest and dividend income) for a child under age 14 is taxed at the child's parents' tax rates. This is the so-called "kiddie tax". Second, because of the "compression" of tax rates (there really are only three rates left: 15, 28 and 33 percent), there may be no income tax savings.

But, this analysis must also take into account that the child can have up to $1,000 in income before being taxed at his parents' marginal rates, and, when the child reaches age 14, the kiddie tax ends. Thus, there are still substantial income tax benefits.

Third, the types of assets that might be appropriate for gift giving can include assets that give off little income in the early years such as interests in closely-held corporations or partnerships, zero-coupon bonds, etc. This can shift substantial asset value in the form of appreciation to the child—appreciation that escapes estate taxation at the parent's death.

Finally, the transferred assets can be used to defray expenses (school tuition, etc.) that the parents would otherwise have to pay from after-tax dollars of their own.

Editor's note: Robert O. Middleton and Janet Montgomery are attorneys concentrating in tax planning for individuals and closely-held businesses with the Chicago law firm of Nisen and Elliott. Both are members of the Chicago Estate Planning Council. They are part of the panel of financial experts preparing This Way to Wealth. Questions are invited by writing to This Way to Wealth in care of this paper or to 2203B Lakeside Drive, Bannockburn, IL 60015.

Developer and landscape architect join to enhance residential project

Lake County developer, Tim O'Leary, president of Country Estate Developers, has always worked to maintain and enhance the environments of the properties he develops as luxury residential communities. Now, O'Leary takes his method of real estate development one step further.

Collaborating with Steve Marzahl, registered landscape architect, and president of the landscape design and contracting firm, Earth Industries, O'Leary has embarked upon his newest project—a 40 acre site consisting of 34 homesites.

Marzahl and O'Leary have spent hours identifying stands of trees and shrubs on the property, and determining which ones will remain and which ones transplanted elsewhere on the property.

Both agree that the preliminary land plan was developed in consideration of the topography and existing vegetation, and this fuels their collective desire to incorporate the existing trees into the landscape plan as specimen and wooded buffer areas.

According to Marzahl, "Tim wants to protect the existing vegetation, and has had the wetland areas delineated and preserved, so I am working towards incorporating the wetland areas into the project's open space plan as an aesthetic feature."

"It is my intent to preserve the waterways, maintain the existing vegetation buffer zone along the creek located on the property's southeast section, and provide for adequate stormwater retention," says O'Leary. In response to this, the award winning developer's directives, Marzahl has recommended an aggressive planting program with trees, prairie grasses and wildflowers, supplementing existing vegetation along the creek, and to recreate native woodlands which have been displaced by the mono-culture of farming.

O'Leary has plans to create additional water features utilizing water available on the site by building ponds and carving out running streams which will be surrounded by trees and flowering plants, and will be a natural home for "Monet-like" waterlily gardens.

Together, these environmentally sensitive professionals have been visiting commercial and private nurseries to choose specimen quality trees and shrubs which will eventually be transplanted to the new project.

O'Leary's project will feature private roads, and an electronically monitored security gate entry, all of which will be heavily landscaped. This exclusive community is located in the Oak Grove and Libertyville school district, and will be serviced by city sewer and water.

Country Estate Developers has been developing luxury single family subdivisions in Lake County for over 15 years. For more information on Country Estate Developers newest project, call Tim O'Leary at (708)360-1800.

For more information on environmentally sensitive landscape architecture and horticultural management, call Steve Marzahl at Earth Industries at (708)587-0265 or (815)678-4177.

Lake County developer Tim O'Leary (left) and landscape architect Steve Marzahl have joined to improve the landscape of a 40 acre, 34 home site near Libertyville. Plans include running streams and ponds on some properties.

New nationwide real estate information hotline

A new innovative approach to offering quality, concise real estate information has been created by American Services.

The nationwide interactive audiotext 900 program allows callers to choose from a menu of options, and combines a voice capture feature so the caller can leave comments and requests for topics they want covered in the future. Menu selection titles will be changed on the first and fifteenth of every month, according to feedback and usage.

Linda Roelle, a professional and independent real estate broker with 19 years experience in the field, coordinates the complex program. As writer and publisher of the "Sunshine Country News," a real estate newsletter for buyers and sellers, for the past 10 years, Roelle finds that the new audiotext format is a predominant force for communication in the 90's. Sharing the knowledge with integrity is vital to her, along with providing prompt bulletins on important information. "After managing two real estate offices and being a consistent multi-million dollar sales producer, I find this undertaking a challenge in today's market," says Roelle.

Oldest resident is 108, going strong

by AMY E. PRZYTULA
Lakeland Newspapers

What is it like to be the oldest person in Lake County? Ask Libertyville resident, Mrs. Getta C. Breckenridge. She will be 109 years old on August second of this year.

"I'll still be here a long time yet," insisted Greta, her blue eyes smiling. She was born in the year 1883 in North Dakota to Lorez and Gurina Stevenson. She grew up with three brothers and four sisters. "But, there were no Indians," she remembered.

Getta has lived in the Winchester House in Libertyville for the past six years. "She is hard of hearing," said one of her nurses, "but she is alert and a very independant lady."

"I like the people here," said Getta. She spends her days sunning herself by the window in her room. It is obvious that the nurses that come and go from her room care deeply about this special lady. Kisses are readily exchanged.

Getta raised one girl and two boys with her husband, William Breckenridge. She lived independently in North Dakota until she moved in with her daughter, Gladys Welch of Park City, in 1974. Although she doesn't recognize Gladys as her daughter, "she thinks of me as a friend," said Gladys. "She is alert," Gladys adds, "she doesn't talk foolish."

Getta once traveled playing the organ and the piano. "I played a lot. I used to play for people at dances," she said. She performed in her area in the northern United States, in Canada and along the West Coast. Gladys recalls her mother playing on the radio. "She also had a great voice and used to sing in the church choir," she said.

"One of the most fasinating things that I have learned about my mother," said Gladys, "is the fact that she went to high school." Getta went to school with her sister forty miles away from the family farm. She lived in a dormitory and studied her piano and organ. "They probably payed for the education in produce, milk, cream and meat," said Gladys.

And just what is the secret to living to be 109? "When she came here, she was taking cod liver oil every day," said

Getta C. Breckenridge

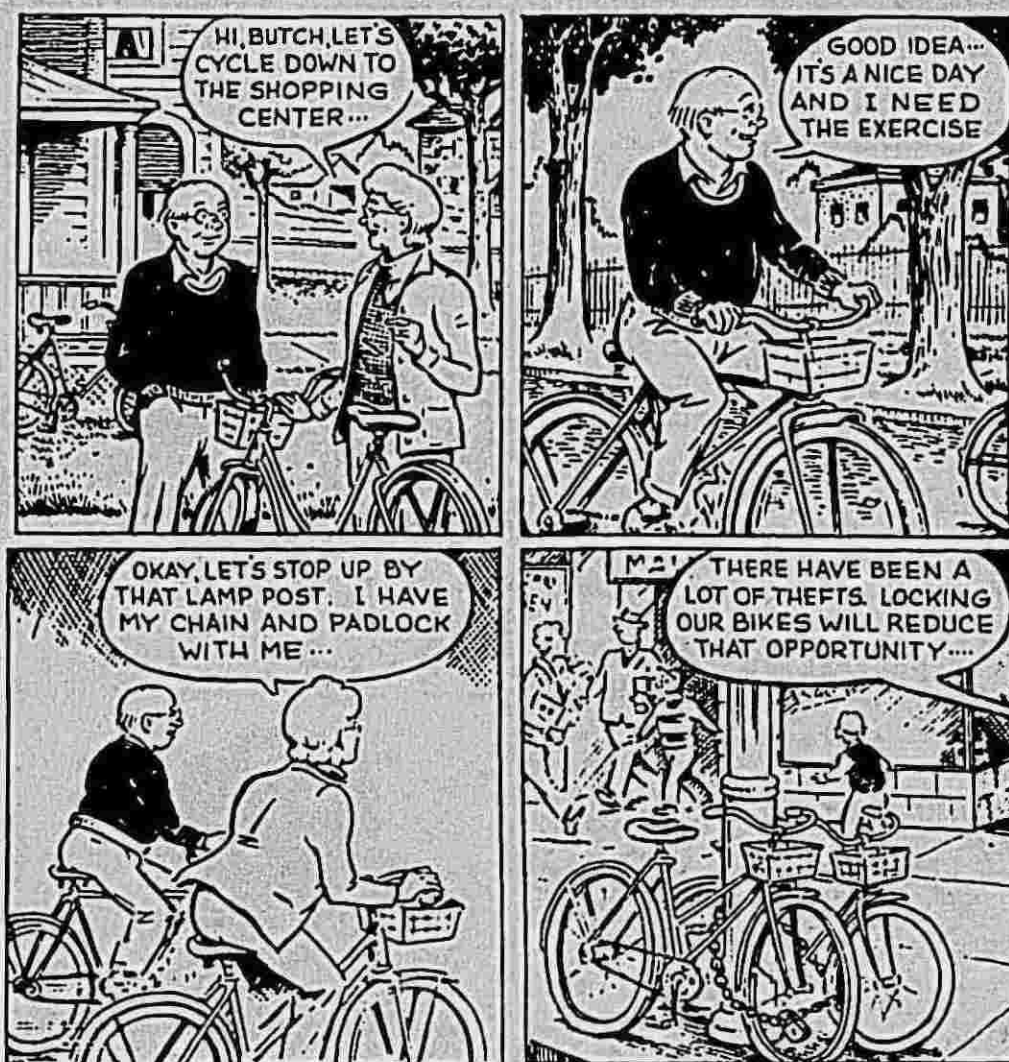

Bunny Kazlauski, one of her nurses. Getta has never had a heart attack, a stroke, or a single broken bone. When Kazlauski reminded her of how old she was, Getta laughed.

But, living to be 109 is no laughing matter. Getta will be honored at the 20th annual Seniors Day on June 24 at the Lakewood Forest Preserve near Wauconda.

Kazlauski quipped, "I think it must be in her genes."

Skin patches can help smokers stop

Q. I've been smoking two packs of cigarettes a day for over 30 years. Unsuccessful attempts to quit have included hypnosis, classes and nicotine gum. I have heard that there are skin patches available to help one stop smoking. How do these work? How can I get them?

John Kelly

A. Currently, there are three different prescrip-

A. Absolutely not! Sunlight will not affect the effectiveness of such medications. What such an auxiliary label warns against is the tendency of certain prescription drugs to cause photosensitivity of the skin. What this means is that they may cause the skin to be more susceptible to developing a rash or sunburn with prolonged sun exposure than what one would normally experience.

Drugs that may cause photosensitivity include Bactrim, Septra, Pediazole, Gantrisin, Gantanol, Azulfidine, Tetracycline and Doxycycline among others. So if you receive a prescription for one of the above, don't cancel that golf outing or Caribbean cruise. Simply be cautious of your sun exposure and apply sunblock with a higher SPF than you would normally use!

tion-only brand names of transdermal nicotine systems available: Habitrol® by Basal Pharmaceuticals, Nicoderm® by Marion Merrell Dow Inc., and Prostep® by Lederle.

Each product is a small, nicotine-containing patch which is placed on the upper body. Nicotine is released through the skin and into the bloodstream at a controlled rate over a 24-hour period. The patch should be removed and replaced by a new one at the same time each day. Application sites should be rotated so that local irritation does not occur.

Nicoderm® and Habitrol® employ a stepped-care approach to smoking cessation. It is recommended that Nicoderm® be used in the following fashion: 21 mg patches for six weeks, 14 mg for two weeks and seven mg for two weeks. The Habitrol® plan involves 21 mg for four to eight weeks, 14 mg for two to four weeks, and seven mg for two to four weeks. Lederle, however, believes that such a stepped-down approach is unnecessary and recommends that its Prostep® 22 mg patch be used for four to eight weeks with only an optional 11 mg weaning dose for two to four weeks.

In all of the above therapies, it is important to remember that the treatment length may vary for each individual patient, that the individual should be psychologically ready to quit smoking (nicotine patches only help with nicotine cravings) and that these products are available by prescription only from your physician. Good luck kicking the habit!

Q. From time to time, I and other members of my family have received prescriptions with the following warning: "Avoid prolonged exposure to sunlight while taking this medication." Does this mean the medicine won't work if I'm out getting a tan?

I feel that same way

I have just read all the articles in the Lipservice. I thought I was the only one who felt that way. If we stop building, we would have trees and fields, less people, therefore less traffic, less traffic lights, small town businesses that really cared about you, no more rudeness, room in the paper to print how the Grant High School team was doing. We wouldn't be complaining that our taxes were going to public education because there wouldn't be as many people. Taxes wouldn't be as high. Whatever... this is really weird. Can't we do something about Lake County? Isn't it our right to do something? Isn't it our privilege to make Lake County what it used to be? Thanks.

Goodie call-in is addicted

I realize that there are a great many things that can be addicting to people. And it sounds to me like the reader critiquing the Hometown Goodies column has become addicted to reading it! So much so that the only way he or she can control themselves to stop reading it, is to cancel their subscription. Wouldn't any intelligent person just turn the page!?

Antioch readers can read more comments about Liz Schmehl's 'Hometown Goodies' on pages 55, 57 and 58.

Dealer rudely changed mind

I was reading the paper and saw this Lipservice and read this part in here about the car dealer that was rude. I must have called on the same one to buy a car. And I think that they are rude, crude and have a bad attitude. Ah, they promised me one price and said nothing would be added. So I said I would be back after I talked to the wife. I came back three days later and said, 'I'm ready to make the deal and here's what we were talking about' and he said, 'I never promised you this.' And he went to the manager and he upped the price, he started calling me mister sarcastically, that I must know a lot of business to know how their business should be run. I told them that if they had not lied to me that I would have bought the car. But, I'm just saying bye-bye. Thank you, good-bye. Antioch.

Potholes on the way to Mills

I live in Gurnee and I'd like to say that the Stern's school road bridge that goes over the tri-state highway is in serious need of resurfacing. They closed that bridge off right before Gurnee Mills opened in order to do some kind of work. But, you certainly can't tell what kind of work was done. Every now and then, they throw some asphalt in the holes, but it doesn't last. There are some really big potholes in that bridge. Something more serious needs to be done. Thanks.

We blew graduation

Your coverage of Warren's graduation was disappointing. Your Gurnee Press carried one small picture, where the Gurnee Review had a 6 inch by 9 inch picture on the cover, plus a whole page spread inside. This was an important event not only to the 380 graduates, but the family, friends, faculty and neighbors. Let's face it, you blew it! Gurnee

Editorial is all wrong

Hello, Mr. Schroeder. I read with interest your editorial about morality and your deduction that perhaps the reason for the loss of morality today is non-involvement of individual citizens in public issues. Yet, when parents try to get involved in a problem of teachers in their local school teaching that immorality is a fun alternative to the 'ignorant' practice of worshiping God, and following His morality you labeled them censors. If teachers are allowed to teach that immorality is fun, what hope do we have for the future? If parents are told that they have no right to protest unacceptable teaching practices and be involved in their children's education, it is no wonder that people won't get involved. And the next time there is a graveyard, a store or a home that is vandalized, don't blame the responsible youth. They are only following the lessons they were taught at school.

Honeymooning and government

I live in Grant Township and I am glad to hear that Charlotte Kiesgen of District Four in Fox Lake is gone. (Continued on Page 48)

From top to bottom, the Gypsy Dancers, the village blacksmith and swordsman Dirk Perfect are just some of the characters who will entertain and delight at this summer's Bristol Renaissance Faire.

The brave knights of the Bristol Renaissance Faire ride into battle. Full-contact jousting will be featured at the tiltyard this summer. Each knight will wear custom-made $4,000 polished-steel suit of armor.

A Faire assessment

Elizabethan tableau vivant set for season

They've come to do battle, these fearless men of muscle and steel. One fights for all things good; the other champions the forces of darkness.

Their armor gleams in the bright sunlight as they mount their sturdy steeds. A light breeze stirs the colorful pennants and trappings of the royal gallery.

The din suddenly subsides as Her Majesty signals the start of the joust.

The mighty horses rear back with heels in their flanks, and then charge forward into the fray. The thunder of galloping hooves is heard above all else. The knights steady their lances and bear down upon one other...

The tiltyard will run red on this day.

And so it will go every Saturday and Sunday at the Bristol Renaissance Faire. The Faire will open for its fifth season Saturday, June 27 and run for nine weeks through Aug. 23.

Knights in shining armor, the Queen

by GREG MILLER

and her court, Royal Falconer John Karger, craftsmen and women from far and wide, wandering minstrels, dancing Gypsies, beggars, swashbuckling swordsmen, jugglers and all sorts of other village folk will be on hand to present the tableau vivant that is the Renaissance Faire. It's a sojourn back to 16th century Elizabethan England.

"We give people a chance to step back in time," said C.L. Talik, media relations coordinator for the Faire. "We're working very hard to recreate Elizabethan England. Everyone here is based on someone who actually lived then."

Most of the people who create the living 16th-century scenes studied at the Bristol Academy of Performing Arts, where workshops on costumes, customs, acting and speech are conducted. The characters are the result of serious research and rehearsal.

"They could walk back into Elizabethan England and blend in," Talik said.

The Faire will be even bigger and better this summer, Talik said.

For the first time, the Faire is producing its own full-contact jousting. Each knight will wear a custom-made polished steel suit of armor costing over $4,000. To carry that load, bigger, stronger horses — averaging 17 and 18 hands high — have been enlisted.

A new two-story stable building will provide a view as squires and knights prepare for battle. The tiltyard has been improved, and seating has been increased.

"We thought it really would be nice to make a complete approach," Talik said. "We're trying to keep it as authentic as possible."

The knights, who have been training on the Faire grounds for months, will settle their disputes three times daily at Wyckham Field.

The Kids Kingdom "gives the little ones a place of their own," Talik said. Such characters as Mother Goose, Troll and Dragon, Grandfather Earth, Mistress Mary and Annabella the Wood Sprite stimulate kids' imaginations.

"There are shows and plays the kids can join in," Talik said. "It's really wonderful."

Talik said international award-winning storyteller Judith Antill will delight the children.

"Judith is one of the people who keeps the magic of the Faire alive."

Other kids fare includes the internationally acclaimed Hystopolis Puppet Theatre and the special daily knighting ceremony, in which the Queen recognizes children for their accomplishments and dubs them Lodes and Laydes.

Talik said the Faire is family "interac-

Supercamp

Supercamp is a 10-day accelerated learning program for girls and boys aged 11-24 which is designed to teach academic and personal growth by tapping into the potential in each individual through an environment that fosters self-esteem and motivation. Through unorthodox techniques students master power reading, problem solving, memorization and "mindmapping," a note-taking method utilizing colors and symbols.

As participants acquire these academic tools, they also conquer unique physical challenges- like climbing a five-foot tree and leaping onto a trapeze or breaking a one-inch thick wood board with a bare hand.

The Chicago-area Supercamp senior high sessions are July 5-15, 18-28 and 31-Aug. 10. The junior high session runs July 31-Aug. 10.

Don't know why, we dug 'Sister Act' but we did!

Most of the critics have been panning Whoopie Goldberg's new comedy, "Sister Act." We enjoyed it. What can we say?

Sure it's an old piece of comedy shtick with a lot of silly Walt Disney touches, but the language is clean (almost a fossil in these days of four-letter word punctuated film scripts,) quite refreshing to an ear we thought had become immune.

Despite the weak script, the scenes where Whoopie takes a particularly terrible white nuns' choir and has them singing a combination of soul and rock, are worth the price of admission.

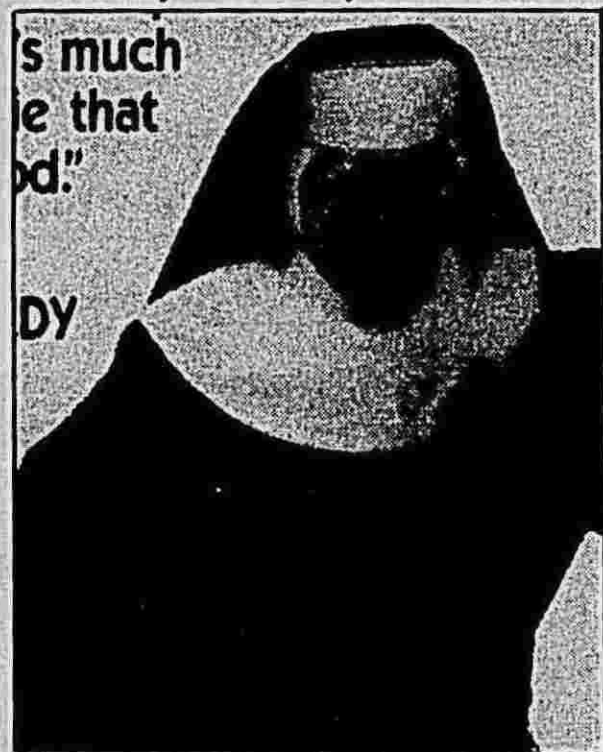

Whoopie herself, playing a nightclub singer who witnesses a murder and is sent to a convent on the witness protection program, turns in a lovable, laughable performance.

Top actress Maggie Smith is completely wasted in the role of the disapproving Mother Superior, a part that many lesser actresses could have played.

Kathy Najimy as an overweight, but enthusiastic soprano, does a good job as does Mary Wickes, the shy postulant that Whoopie desheals.

The difference that the meaning of the lyrics of popular songs take on when sung as people's love for God is surprising and quite uplifting.

We give "Sister Act" three out of five stars. Don't expect marvelous emoting and a five-star story. Do expect to laugh a little, smile a lot and some outstanding musical numbers.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Critic's Choice

'Working Magic' not truly magical

Theater has a unique magic of its own: a good production can transport its audience (mentally if not physically) to a far-away place or even back in time. It can move a person to tears or convulse him with laughter—occasionally at the same time.

In Margaret Hunt's "Working Magic," debuting at Chicago's Victory Gardens Theater, there's "magic" performed on stage by its main character, Harry Houdini Grant and two of his associates, in the form of teleportation, levitation and a disappearing rabbit named Red Eye.

The story profiles the hapless Grant, who's descended from a long line of magicians. He's approaching middle age yet so far his calling hasn't paid off with much commercial success, although he sometimes finds himself blessed with unknown power to perform feats he can't explain. All in all, he's happiest practicing his art on the street for "chump change," as his wife Lila bemoans.

But there's one trick that eludes Harry and Lila, and that's parenthood. More than anything, they want a child of their own, and "Working Magic" explores some of the frustrating dead-ends they explore, from endless fertility tests to visits with would-be surrogate mothers and questionable adoption agencies.

Michael Varna is credible in his role as Grant, the slight-of-hand expert, but wimpy and unconvincing as would-be father, despite the experience he gets as part-time sitter for his friends' infant. Carlton Miller is the childless wife Lila, whose obsession with having a baby seems stilted.

Meg Thalken stands out in the eight-member cast for her portrayal of the hard-driving public relations executive who outwardly has it all: looks, career and a baby. There's a razor-edge pitch to her characterization, and it works wonderfully well.

Despite some fancy legerdemain, "Working Magic" is just a nice, if sometimes hum-drum, little comedy.—by TOM WITOM tive entertainment" and can spark a yen for learning.

"What if the kids say, 'Gee, that was really neat. Can we read about it?'"

The Faire has expanded its already huge array of crafters and their wares. Over 150 crafters offer authentic pieces of everything imaginable. The Faire stipulates that crafters must make the items themselves from materials available in the 16th century.

And, of course, there's entertainment for everyone being presented continuously on 11 separate stages along the village streets. Audience participation is encouraged.

Eat, drynke and be merrie is an order of the day. There's a wide variety of interesting food and drink available to suit any palate.

"We want to offer a little more," Talik said. "There's something for everyone at the Faire."

The Bristol Renaissance Faire is located directly west of I-94 on State Line Rd. at Bristol, Wis. The hours are 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday — rain or shine.

Admission is $11.95 for adults, $5.95 for kids 5-12 and $10.95 for senior citizens 55 or over and students (with ID). Season passes are $50. Tickets bought in advance by groups of 15 or more adults are just $8.95 each. There's a special kids group rate too.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Anchor in on the moment and make the most of the opportunities that present themselves all week long. Exercise more discretion with what you say this weekend, when you are in an unusually "chatty" mood. You love hanging out and catching up on all the news right now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You start the week on a low note, but you feel better and better as the week goes on. Listen to your instincts, because you are on target, as you will discover as the week progresses. You treat and delight another all weekend long. Allow yourself to let go.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Go with the winds of fate all week long, though you may want to focus on where you're going and what's going on. Approach a situation with new insight. Refuse to back down this weekend. You are the prime player — the one whom everyone wants to be with. Be that party animal!

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Look at what's really going on. Take responsibility on the work front. Another respects your candidness. Connections you make right now head you down the victory path. You have much to gloat about, but rather, choose to escape with a loved one all weekend long.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Check

things out. Clarity and succinctness are your strong suit this week. You are about to jump into a new phase — hesitate little and, simply, go for it. Count on a major celebration this up and coming weekend. Invite all your friends, all your neighbors, and let it all hang out.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Negotiate partnership deals of all types this week — you can get the terms you want. With one person, however, you may have to go far and wide to reach an agreement. Adventure is the hallmark of the week, though you may "choose" to keep that staid image during the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Right now, know that you're not in the dominant position — though you can change this. Listen to your sixth sense with regard to a money matter. Close encounters of the nice variety are slated all week long and weekend, too. Be ready to take off at the drop of a hat!

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Refuse to be taken for a ride by a domineering partner, rather let it be known who's in control here. Worry less about ruffled feathers, because you play kiss and make up all weekend long. Renegotiate your position. It is one of those hot and heavy few days.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Come from a

"centered" place this week when dealing with loved ones and work. How you structure your week is really up to you. (Go for a bohemian schedule!) By the way, try to be more nurturing with a special loved one. You get unusual returns as a result.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Your style of handling matters comes out very clearly this week. Initiate (and if you can, finalize) important talks early on, because by the end of the week, you will want to let go and play more. Creativity, ingenuity (and playfulness) are all hallmarks of the weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Chat up a storm. Talk about basics and where you're heading. Trust and know that this week turns out just wonderfully for you. You are looking at a romantic, wild or fun weekend. By the way, why not try mixing them all up together? Meanwhile, let others do the chasing.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Creativity is high this week. Use this endless source to straighten out finances (or better yet) to enhance them. Security needs to be made a major issue during this period of fast expansion and growth. Make weekend plans to chill out and relax with a favorite person.

Children Flying Alone

by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

It's that time of year again, Little Mary may be taking her first plane trip by herself to stay with Grandma in Florida. Or maybe Joey is going to spend the summer with Dad who now lives in Houston. It's the time when many children have to fly alone.

Here are some things to know. The airlines are very experienced in transporting unaccompanied minors and have set procedures to assure this most precious cargo will reach their destination safely.

Children 5 through 7 must travel only on non-stop flights.

Older kids, ages 8 through 11, may fly on connecting flights, but it is required that an airline official assist them in changing planes for which most airlines will charge an additional $25. Unaccompanied children ages 12 through 15 may request this service, but it is not mandatory.

An adult must bring the child to the airport and stay with them until they board the plane. If the child is under 12, a card must be filled out with the name, address and telephone number of the adult who will be meeting the child's plane at their destination. The airlines are very strict about releasing the minor only to the person whose is named on this card.

Visit the airport before the trip. Point out the ticket counters and uniformed airline personnel, the only people from whom he should seek help. Tell your child he does not need to stand in line, and can go to any airline ticket counter, if he needs help.

Check your child's ticket to make sure all flight information is correct. Some cities have more than one airport. You wouldn't want Grandma to be waiting at Houston Intercontinental and Joey to arrive at Houston Hobby Airport!

A little planning will assure a smooth first flight for our future frequent flyers.

Makeover June '92

Ah, coming of age. The transition between girl and woman where seemingly overnight a woman emerges from within the child and life is never again the same.

Gone are pigtails and barbie dolls replaced with trendy hairstyles, hours in front of the mirror and on the phone and shopping.

With summer upon us, it's the perfect time to try a new look and perfect it before the coming school year. Lakeland's latest make-overs were two sisters ready to shed the image of childhood and begin to make the transition to adulthood.

Kelly Spencer, 15 and her sister, Christine, 13, were the subject of Lakeland's June make-over.

Kelly will be a sophomore at Grayslake Community High School and Christine a freshman this fall. Both were looking for a new image to boost their self-confidence.

"I'm not really happy with my image or looks and I'm always looking for ways to help myself look and feel better," wrote Kelly in her bid to become a make-over subject. "Being this age I feel very insecure," said Christine. "I believe a makeover would really improve my confidence."

The sisters began their afternoon, slightly nervous anticipating the transition but ready to give it a shot. The first destination was Shapes Hair Design in Grayslake where we were greeted by owner Tamie Walsh and stylists Linda Meroni and Kathy Rieke. Neither of the sisters had ever had their hair professionally cut and styled and were cautiously eager. Mom, Betty, stood by awaiting the results.

Meroni recommended cutting Kelly's long hair to an all one length style with baby bangs. Kelly hesitated for a minute, then decided "it'll grow back if I don't like it." Meroni used Paul Mitchell detangler for instant conditioning, body and shine. The full style accented Kelly's healthy hair and will provide easy summer care and many styling options. For Christine, Rieke took her long grown-out cut and gave it layers for fullness and to bring out her cheekbones and accent her eyes. "This style works good with her hair and makes her look more mature," said Rieke. "A body wave would make it even easier for her to do." Throughout the cutting process, the sister asked Mom to relay how the other was doing. "You're both looking great," Betty responded.

When Meroni and Rieke took off the capes and turned their subjects around Mom could only gasp, "They look great, they look so much older. Really cute." Kelly agreed that her shorter style was going to be great for the summer. "I really like it," she said enthusiastically. "I have layers," Christine exclaimed as they both asked for each other's opinion and squealed, "you look great" to each other.

Next stop was back to Lakeland's conference room where Mary Kay representative Judi Becker gave the sisters the works. Becker started them off with a facial. First step—determining the type of skin that they had. Both have combination skin which is oily on the nose and somewhat dry on the cheeks. "Combination skin, believe it or not, is very common and it's the best kind of skin," said Becker. "As you get older that little extra oil helps to fight wrinkles."

After applying Mary Kay cleansing lotion, Becker applied a mask consisting of ground up walnut shells to the girls skin to exfoliate dry dead skin cells and fight bacteria that causes blemishes. The green mask may not have been completely eye-pleasing at the time but the results were fantastic. After the mask came freshener to take off the residue of other products, deep clean and heal blemishes. For the summer months, Becker recommended a light application of bronzing gel instead of foundation. "The most important thing when you put on any kind of make-up is to blend and blend so you don't see the lines," cautioned Becker.

Make-up was based on the skin tone/hair color. For Kelly, Becker chose pink opal and heather rose for the eyes to pull out the color and shape and highlight them. Christine's eyes were done with pink chiffon and whipped cocoa. Blush was applied at the start of the top of cheekbone and forward toward the nose. For Kelly it was Azalea and Christine Apricot. To complete the picture, Kelly "pink frosted" her lips and Christine added drops of honey. "The two of you look like movie stars," said Becker when she finished. "Julia Roberts eat you heart out."

Looking older and sportier with their new hair-dos and make-up, Kelly and Christine headed for Lake Zurich's Skier's Stop where Rick Rybarczyk told them to help themselves to anything that caught their eye and be ready for some fun in the sun.

Kelly chose a brightly colored sundress with splashes of neon orange and a cover-up t-shirt to keep her shoulders from burning in the sunlight. A jazzy pair of shades set it off and she tried on a ski-board for size.

For Christine, bright flowered shorts and a big purple t-shirt accented her make-up and hair color and set the tone for summer recreation. She tried out a ski-board and a jazzy pair of shades to accent her new looks, too.

Looking great and much older, the girls headed home for the real test—Dad. Before Dad could get a glimpse their neighbor across the street spotted them returning and commented, "wow, is that really Kelly and Christine, they look great and much older."

"I think they look real cute," said Charles Spencer. "They look like young ladies, my little girls are really growing up."

To celebrate their new looks and straight "A" report cards for the school year, Charles and Betty took their young ladies for dinner at the 94th Aero Squadron in Wheeling, Saturday night.

The Spencer sisters say they'll spend the summer, having fun in the sun and enjoying their free-time. Among the things on their to-do list are finishing a children's book about cats, Christine is writing and Kelly illustrating. They'll also find time for exploring the area, visiting with friends and babysitting. Kelly hopes to become a Marine Biologist and Christine a writer.

If you would like to be the July makeover, send a photo and a letter explaining why you should be the next makeover to Claudia Lenart, 30 S. Whitney, Grayslake, Ill. 60030. We're looking for men and women of all ages, couples, kids and maybe even dogs.

Grattan's Wharf offers great food, great view

A gentle breeze softly caresses as you watch the sun set over the lake. But that's just the first course being served your senses. The best is yet to come — a taste delight from the kitchen at Grattan's Wharf.

Situated on the east shore of Deep Lake, Grattan's Wharf offers a wide variety of palate pleasers.

Two of the sandwich favorites are the Starboard (a charbroiled eight-ounce ribeye served open face with sauteed mushrooms and sweet peppers) and the First Mate (a combination of shrimp and crab salad served on french bread). All sandwiches come complete with curly fries.

Seafood — Deviled Shrimp, the Fisherman's Platter — leads off the dinner menu, and if you're looking for something different, try the Stuffed Cornish Hen (with bread stuffing and glazed with an orange-cranberry sauce) or the Braciola (beef rolls stuffed bacon, mushrooms, Parmesan and egg, topped with marinara sauce and served with pasta and bread squares).

Pasta dinners — seafood pasta, spaghetti and scampi pasta — are also available and come with soup or salad and bread squares.

Two new unique appetizers are a baked crab and shrimp combo and scallop kabobs.

For the light appetite Grattan's offers several salad choices, including pasta salad and chicken and tuna salad.

A children's menu "for the little mates" makes family dining an enjoyable and affordable affair.

Every Friday from 5 p.m. until 10 p.m., Grattan's Wharf offers an all-you-can eat fish fry. It's lightly breaded and deep-fried perch filets, curly fries and cole slaw to your stomach's content for just $6.95.

Live entertainment is on tap most weekends and starts at around 9 p.m. "Ricky Lee" is scheduled for this weekend, June 26-27.

Enjoy the view in the dining room through huge picture windows or settle in on the deck. Owner Jack Grattan and manager Sally Dudick are ready to make your dining experience a memorable one.

To get to Grattan's Wharf from Grand Avenue, go north on Deep Lake Road. Turn left on 2nd Avenue, go straight, and you can't miss it. The address is 38564 N. Edgewood Ave., Lake Villa.

Lunch is served Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. Dinner and lunch is Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m.

Dems develop fall goals for campaign

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Lake County Democrats will give voters plenty of reasons to vote for their candidates in the November presidential election.

A party platform is now being developed specifically for Lake County. The planks will cover everything from the environment and economy to highway gridlock and ethics, said Lake County Democratic party Chairman Terry Link.

"It will be a 10 year plan," he said, "of the direction we feel Lake County should take and how our candidates feel it should get there. Basically, it will be a leadership plan.

"Leadership has been sorely lacking in the Republican Party of Lake County," Link said in pointing the finger at that party for putting politics above public service.

"Our platform will give voters an alternative," Link said. "I promise you it will give them more than one reason to vote for our candidates. And it won't be political rhetoric.

It will cover, emphasize, among other things, what the candidates for county office will do if elected, goals of the legislative candidates in holding state office and what the election of Democrats will mean to Lake County.

These principals will be spelled out by all candidates in appearances and interviews leading to the Nov. 2 election.

The candidates will wholeheartedly endorse the platform because they will help develop it in conjunction with the Democratic Central Committee. "This is the unity part of our platform," Link said.

The campaign has a theme of "New Deal for '92."

Link said he hopes to roll out the party's message within the next two months.

Forest board's president pay on rise, not members

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

The salary of the Lake County Forest Preserve president will be going from the lowest in a five-county area to tied for third, while board members salaries will be staying the same.

That is the result of votes taken at the last Lake County Forest Preserve meeting. The salary of the president will increase 300 percent, from $2,500 to $10,000 a year as that motion won by a 14-7 vote after a $5,000 salary was defeated by voice vote. A bid to increase the per diem reimbursement for board members from $20 to $25 failed.

The Will County Forest Preserve president makes the most of the five-county area, $25,000 a year with the vice president making $15,000 a year and members making $30 per diem. Next is the Kane County Forest Preserve president with a $12,000 a year salary with members making $20 per diem; Winnebago County's Forest Preserve president makes $10,000 a year and DuPage's president makes $6,000 a year.

The increase will begin with the next president.

"You are recognizing the responsibility," commissioner Colin McRae said.

"It is a symbol of the respect for that office and the job being done," Commissioner Bobbie O'Reilly said.

"Raising the salary to $10,000 is something that should have been done long ago," commissioner Robert Buhai said.

The most debate centered around the $20 to $25 issue or an annual Forest Preserve commission member salary.

"We are not going to solve abuse with this resolution. To nickle and dime for what could be a 30-minute meeting is insulting," commissioner O'Reilly said.

'Raising the salary to $10,000 is something that should have been done long ago.'

— Robert Buhai, Forest Preserve commissioner

"It is a bad signal we are sending. It appears we are scratching for every dollar," commissioner Stanley Pekol said.

"I've seen abuse of the annual salary. To change from per diem to an annual salary is very wrong," commissioner Donald Strenger said.

McRae said the proposed $1,500 annual salary is "an adult way of handling it." McRae, who made $6,000 as mayor of Mundelein, expressed concern that politics is already excluding people who may want to serve out.

Commissioner James Dolan said he could not support the $1,500 salary but could support the per diem increase to $25.

Commissioner Carol Calabresa said the per diem approach encourages the "go along to get-along" concept.

Exchange convention set

A year in the making, Gurnee will be the center stage for Lake County Exchange Club members as the district convention will be held June 26-28 at the Gurnee Holiday Inn.

"I hope we will have a big turnout. We have been working a year on it," Ken Hellstern, president of the Gurnee Noon Exchange Club, said.

Gurnee Noon, Gurnee Breakfast and Antioch Exchange are the host clubs for the three-day event.

The 4th US Army Colorguard will post colors and the pledge of allegiance will be led by Robert Heinz of Gurnee at the 2:30 p.m. opening session. Gurnee Mayor Dick Welton will welcome the convention goers.

Sandra Buzan of Crystal Lake will give a motivational talk, "Do You Want to be Successful" at noon.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Q: I have been employed with the same company for the past 9 years. The owner of the company I am employed with is bitter about me seeking new employment for monetary reasons. I have interviewed with a company who has checked my reference and has informed me that they are unable to get a reference checked with the exception of dates of employment and job title. I have no other references as this has been my only employer. Is it common practice to give out limited information like this? What should I do? R.B.

A: In answer to your question, yes. It has become common practice for a company to only verify dates of employment and position. However, there are companies who will give out more with a letter from the employee requesting further information be released. In any case, the time to be worrying about references is not after the fact. Have all your "ducks in a row" prior to the first interview. Line up your references. Ask a former department head for a letter of recommendation. Let them know that you would appreciate their help in giving you a reference should a potential employer call. To make it more convenient, ask the best time and place to have someone contact them. Good luck.

Q: Is it ok to wear perfume or cologne on and interview? H.R.

A: I would suggest refraining from either on an interview. Scented perfumes or colognes, while pleasant to the one wearing them, may be offensive to others. An applicant recently told me that five minutes into an interview in a small office, the interviewer asked if they could reschedule their interview for the next day. He proceeded to explain his allergy to perfume and the headaches that it causes him. I hear this more and more. And yes, the interview went on the next day as planned. Employer and employee are doing fine.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

ASCOT

OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 74'-0" X 74'-0"
LIVING: 3873 square feet
GARAGE: 701 square feet

ASCOT (332-043)
By Landmark Designs, Inc.

Brick walls and half-timbering in the gables would be enough to establish the Ascot's Tudor styling. But massive medieval chimneys, ribbons of small-paned windows, and an oriel window at center on the second floor complete the image.

Once inside, you're clearly in the '90s. A large kitchen packed with modern conveniences is at the heart of the Ascot. Features include double ovens, microwave, dishwasher, walk-in pantry, and an island with a cooktop and grill. Breakfasting in the sunny octagonal nook starts your day on a cheerful note.

Formal dining takes place in the spacious vaulted dining room. A second-floor balcony overlooks this bright space, and French doors open onto a dining deck.

The elegant lobby is also vaulted. Stairs here lead to a second floor landing with a railed balcony facing the entrance. A small den or office is to the left, and a stately vaulted living room with fireplace is to the right.

Stairs in the lobby aren't the only access to the second floor, by the way. Another staircase is in the family room. Basement stairs are below, accessible from a unique octagonal hub, open to the kitchen, garage, utility room, powder room and master suite, all at the same time.

A garden spa is the most striking feature of the sumptuous owners' suite. Tropical plants will thrive in this moist, bright environment. Other amenities include an enclosed toilet and oversized shower, his and hers walk-in closets, and twin basins in an extra-long vanity.

Storage space and three more bedrooms are upstairs. Each has a large walk-in closet. The back bedroom is intended for use as a guest suite, but could be a den or office. It is larger and has a private bath with two basins.

Occupants of the other two bedrooms will have to share a bathroom-- but what a bathroom! How luxurious it feels to bathe in a tub nestled into the nook created by the diamond-paned windows in the oriel-style projection.

Inspiration for this plan came from a reader in Livonia, Michigan. For a study plan of the ASCOT (332-043), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects

Shooting linked to Gypsy underworld

by DAN BERNARD
Lakeland Newspapers

The story behind the fatal shooting of a suspected burglar in Round Lake Beach grew only a bit clearer this week, but it grew intriguing beyond the bounds of a routine suburban break-in. Police arrested the victim's suspected partner-in-burglary—a man wanted for attempted murder—and revealed the two may have been involved in a regionwide network of criminals run by ethnic Gypsies.

Stevan Dragan Pavlovic, 30, of Chicago, was charged with attempted residential burglary and held on $500,000 bail in the Lake County Jail this week. Bail was set high because Pavlovic has a long criminal history and because a death occurred during his suspected crime, said Lake County Sheriff's spokesman Lt. Steven Towns-end.

Pavlovic may face further charges as Lake County State's Attorney's officials review the findings of a county police investigation. More findings may come as soon as Friday or Monday, Towns-end said.

But there will still no charges this week for Jelenko Jevremovic, the 71-year-old Round Lake Beach man who pulled the trigger in the June 11 incident. A 30-year-old Skokie man died soon after being struck by one of Jevremovic's shots. State's attorney's officials are awaiting investigation results before considering charges for Jevremovic.

Alleged partner nabbed by police

The revelation of the suspects' ethnic Gypsy connection raises further questions about their relationship to Jevremovic. Jevremovic is a Yugoslavian Serb; the victim, known as Marko Sarino, was a Yugoslavian Gypsy; while the suspected partner, Pavlovic, was a Serb who associated with Gypsies, not Serbs, county police said.

Police still do not know if Jevremovic was previously acquainted with the suspected burglars. But they do not believe Pavlovic frequented the Serbian Brothers Help hall in Lake Villa Township where Jevremovic and his wife played bingo.

Police are confident, however, that Sarino and Pavlovic were "part of recognized Gypsy groups currently operating in the Northern Illinois area," according to a county police statement.

Illinois State Police have tracked since 1989 the activities of this crime network of Yugoslav Gypsies. The network is involved primarily in nonviolent crimes—shoplifting, "till-tapping" and diversion scams, where a number of Gypsies create a distraction in a store and others steal items. State police say 230 such diversions took place in northern Illinois in 1989 and 1990.

These Gypsy thieves are "all part of one big family, and this family is extensive," Towns-end said. "These families are spreading throughout the U.S."

In Illinois, Gypsies are concentrated in Skokie, Evanston, Chicago and Lincolnwood, Towns-end said. As to why members of the normally North-Shore based group wound up in Northwest Lake County, police say they may soon reveal their suspicion.

Both Sarino and Pavlovic have long lists of aliases and criminal offenses.

Sarino, who was also known as Jose Rivera of Chicago, has been linked with more than 34 alternate names, Towns-end said. Sarino had a history of arrests in connection with robbery, burglary, theft and other offenses in Illinois, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, New Jersey, New York and Connecticut. He was also arrested by the Border Patrol for illegally entering the United States in 1990.

Pavlovic, known as "Stevo," has been in the United States for only six months but has several arrest-warrants outstanding in Canada. The warrants are for attempted murder, aggravated assault, three burglaries and possession of restricted firearms.

The June 11 shooting took place a week after Jevremovic's house was burglarized while he and his wife were out playing bingo. A series of strange phone calls made Jevremovic suspect his house would be hit again. So when bingo night came around again, Jevremovic waited in his house with a .380 automatic pistol.

Jevremovic heard what seemed to be two males trying to force open the front door. He opened the inner door and shot at the men. One, Sarino, ran a short distance and collapsed, to be pronounced dead by Condell Medical Center staff.

The other man fled and escaped responding police officers. After interviewing many members of the Gypsy community and checking out "100 leads," investigators from the Lake County Major Crime Task Force tracked down Pavlovic to the Carlos Hotel, 3834 N. Sheffield Ave., Chicago, where he lived.

Lotto man must raise support-payments

by DAN BERNARD
Lakeland Newspapers

A Round Lake Beach man who won a $10 million Lotto jackpot will have to split off a chunk of it for his ex-wife, a Lake County Circuit Court judge ordered Wednesday. Ronald "Randy" Mathias must increase child-support payments to his ex-wife from about $140 a month to $2,600 a month.

That's about $31,000 annually, as compared to the $525,000 annual jackpot earnings Mathias splits with his second wife, Donna. The Mathiases won $10.4 million in a March 7 Illinois state lottery drawing.

The award is short of the $3,000 a month ex-wife Sandy Mathias of Grayslake had sought. That figure was closer to 20-percent of the father's income, the rule of thumb used in setting child-support levels. But the award is higher than the $2,000 a month payment level a judge set temporarily three weeks ago.

Sandy Mathias' attorney argued that Randy and Sandy's 12-year-old son Matthew deserved a share of Randy's riches.

"Mr. Mathias had had a turn of good fortune, and his son was entitled to a share of the bounty," said attorney Bill Rosing, a Waukegan lawyer.

Sandy Mathias filed for an child-support increase through a routine procedure that allows for payment-level review when the father's income level increases.

"Randy" Mathias' lawyer had hoped to establish that his second wife was the owner of the winning ticket, and that the annual earnings from the jackpot are her income, not his. Rosing planned to counter that Mathias was changing his story to hold onto the money. Randy Mathias told the Round Lake News in early March that he had purchased the ticket. But he later said the money was purchased with cash his wife owned, and the jackpot was awarded in both the Mathiases' names.

But when Associate Judge Harry Hartel handed down the order Wednesday morning, he made no mention of the question of ownership of the ticket. Nor did Hartel mention any of his reasoning for the award, Rosing said.

"The judge just came out with a number," Rosing said.

The previous child-support level was set in 1986, and "the child (had) gone for all these years on a very minimal basis," Rosing said.

Randy Mathias has given $117,000 to relatives and has said the lottery winning will pay for all of son Matthew's college expenses. But Mathias would not comment as to what if any sum he had been prepared to voluntarily give to his son before the court order.

Randy Mathias' attorney was unavailable for comment after the ruling.

In a 1987 case involving a lottery winner's child-support payment, an Ogle County man was ordered to pay the full 20 percent of his annual jackpot income to his wife, Rosing said.

Ronald Mathias of Round Lake Beach, pictured here with wife Donna accepting their $10.4 million Lotto prize in March, was ordered this week to increase child-support payments to his ex-wife to $31,000 a year.

She is our county board member who is collecting $1,600 a month and has not attended a county board meeting since last November. She is being paid $23,000 a year out of our tax dollars to honeymoon with her new husband. How Sweet! This is a complete disgrace to our county board. Char Kiesgen should have resigned or been removed from office. You wonder why our tax dollars are high and where our tax dollars are going. Wake up people in Lake County! She's ripping off the county and she's ripping off us! She is supposed to be representing us on the county board level. Wouldn't we all like to have an extra income of $1,600 dollars a month for doing nothing? Thank you, Joe Soulak, for keeping us abreast of the political news that affects us all. That money could have been used to help people who really needed it! Thank you.

Parking for handicapped

I'm a Mundelein resident and my chief beef is this... handicapped parking. They have $50 fine for illegal parking. Unfortunately, I am a handicapped person. Many times I see young teenagers hurriedly run out of their car and into a store and leave their car in a handicapped zone. Handicapped should be restricted to people who really need it. I am a senior citizen and I walk with a walker. I can't walk anywhere without it. And it just burns me to see these young people, because there is a parking space near by and they park in the handicapped vacancy. Even if they're in there five minutes or so, someone handicapped could really need the spot. That has happened to me several times. Also, carts do not belong in the handicapped zone. Many times I have seen it. I called it to the attention of the manager, and he took care of it. That is showing no respect for the handicapped signs. I would suggest that the Mundelein Police would enforce the signs with the $50 fees or a warning. Maybe print them in a different language so that they know that it is a no parking. Thank you for your time, good luck.

Olympics all gold

What happened to the Senior Olympics? When the Mundelein Senior Center was held at the Lincoln School, the annual fun-event was the Senior Olympics. The had bowling, basketball (all senior versions, of course) croquet, and a number of fun game that not only brought a huge turnout, but made the seniors feel very special, which they are. I'll never forget the face of a senior that had won two or three ribbons for basketball and the like. She was a very sedate senior in her 70s, and just came to watch, but got caught up in the fun. This was when the center was run by Catholic Charities. So, maybe some of the Park District members could contact that organization. It sure was a change when seniors had something else to look forward to, besides card games. Wake up, Park District. The seniors may be getting older, but they really like planned activities.

What is this?!

I can't believe that the Lakeland Newspapers started this Lipservice column! I can't believe that I'm calling it! Seems to me that it is kinda like an editorial page, except that the person calling is left unidentified. Which means that people can call and say anything about anybody and have it printed free. Free of charge to boot! I am mainly concerned about the person that called in about Liz Schmehl's column. Is it really from just a reader of the Antioch paper, or an enemy in the Grass Lake school district? If it is that bad, just turn the page when you get to it. Do you really have to cancel your subscription to the paper? I don't think so. Sounds to me like what you really want is for Lizard to lose her job. As for Lakeland Newspapers, I hope this column does what you intended it to do.. Does this mean that all personal ads are now free?? Happy Birthday, Chris!

Markets too expensive

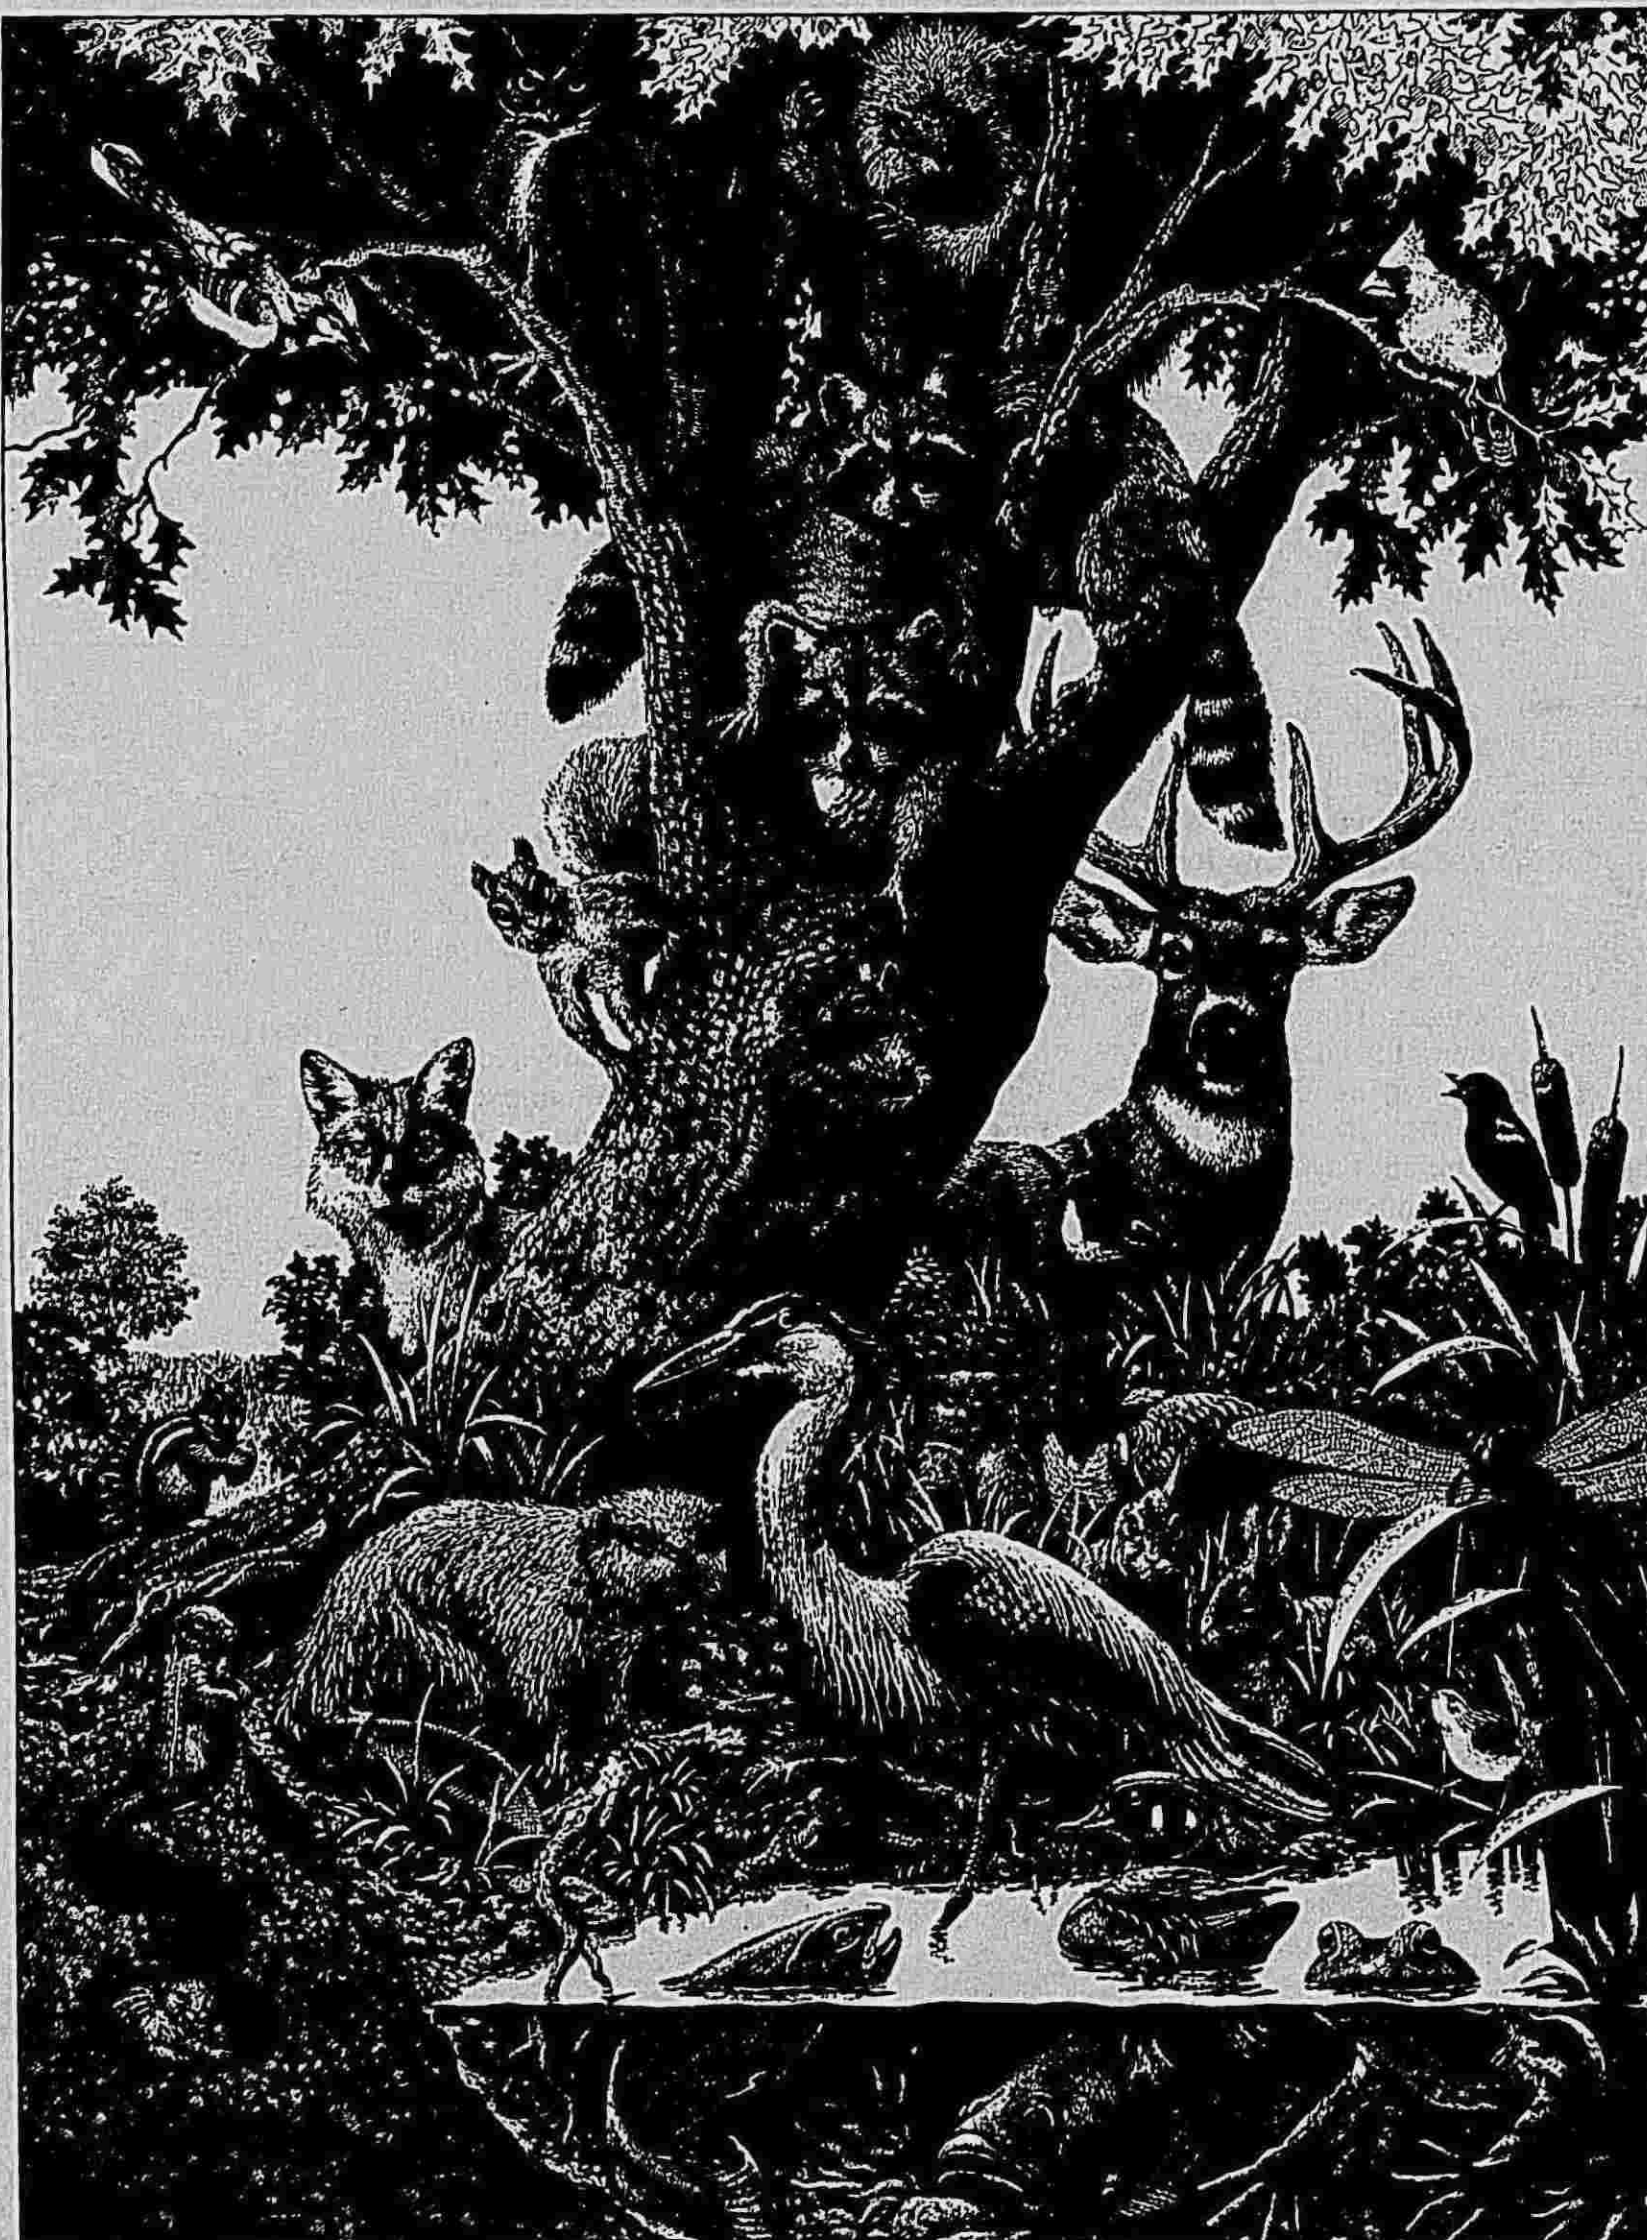

This is in response to the man who complained about the small businesses in the area. I don't like shopping at Walmart and Sam's, necessarily. I would love to shop at my hometown markets, but I can't afford to. It is too expensive. I, too, have to watch the money that goes out, and can't afford to shop at the small stores. Maybe there is something to do about it.

No kids, still pay for school

I am responding to the woman who called in and said that she would like to have her taxes go to Catholic schools because her children go there, rather than to public schools. And I would like to remind her that the American Public School System was founded upon public education for everyone, with taxes coming out of everyone's pockets. I personally have no children and will never personally benefit from my taxes going to public schools. So, in a sense, she's better off than I am. At least her children will have an education some way and she has children to get an education. Yet, my taxes go to public schools, and will all my life as long as I have a home. As long as the rest of us taxpayers have to pay money, I think that anyone who goes to private schools should have to pay also. If they choose to send their children to private schools, fine, that's wonderful. I wish them all the luck they can have. Maybe they could get an income tax reduction of some sort. But, they don't have the right too pull their money out of public schools. Thank you.

Edison conservation efforts attract attention.

Once a year, the National Institute for Urban Wildlife presents its Outstanding Conservation Award to the individual or organization which has done the most for wildlife conservation. Their 1991 recipient, we're pleased to report, was Commonwealth Edison, in recognition of the 3,000 acre recreation and conservation area we created near our Braidwood power plant. Come out and visit. But hurry. It's already attracting quite a crowd.

Police search for suspect in Gurnee armed robbery

Gurnee police continue to search for a suspect in an armed robbery incident June 16.

Two suspects, one wearing a mask, walked up to a truck driver who was parked in the parking lot behind Taylor Rental, 3621 Rte. 132.

One suspect, described as a male Hispanic, is still at large while a Gurnee resident was arrested the next day. Arrested was David Weber of Gurnee. He was transported to Lake County Jail.

Gurnee Police Investigator Fred Witte said a struggle ensued between Weber and the driver, William Newbolds, 54, of Orleans Ind. "He (Newbolds) yelled to his son, John, 21, to wake up," Witte said.

Newbolds later identified Weber, who was not masked, in a lineup at Gurnee Police Dept. No money was taken.

The incident took place at 3:15 a.m. The second suspect ran from the scene. Witte said anyone who may have seen the suspect flee should call the police department at (708) 244-8640.

Community must unite to prevent gangs

One of the most frequently requested topics for public speaking engagements lately has been street gangs.

I have attended seminars and town meetings on the subject and have heard what the "experts" think, as well as what the general public opinion seems to be. The "experts" blame socio-economic and cultural deficiencies while some individuals openly blame the police for "allowing" gangs to exist. The breakdown of the family unit is a popular phrase used by almost everyone who addresses the subject.

Regardless of which intangible "reason" is your favorite, Lake County has begun to suffer the effects of street gangs. If you think that gang crime has yet to reach your community, I suggest you contact your local police department and see if your neighborhood has remained free of burglaries and gang related vandalism over the past year. Most people I've heard from admit that Waukegan, Zion, and North Chicago have a gang problem. They don't seem to know that Round Lake, Diamond Lake, and Mundelein have ever increasing gang populations and related crimes. Of the people who are aware of the problem in those communities, a large number of those people are shocked to hear of gang activities in Lake Forest, Antioch, Buffalo Grove, Island Lake, Fox Lake, Highland Park, Gurnee, and Deerfield. You should be glad to hear that the above named municipalities do have concerns and are training police officers to recognize the signs of gang activities and how to discourage those criminal activities.

Remember, being in a gang is not a crime and the police are empowered only to deal with the criminal violations associated with gang membership. The question then becomes, who is responsible for the non-criminal aspects of gang membership and what can be done to drive the gang activity from our front door?

The answer goes back thousands of years and is a bitter pill to swallow for those among us who do not wish to get involved. We must make ourselves aware of what the problem is and admit that no matter where we live, the responsibility for the safety and security of the community rests squarely on the shoulders of the members of that community. There was wrong doing going on before governments, laws, armies, or police departments came into being. Peoples in that time banded together with a commonality of purpose in order to protect their values and beliefs and to protect themselves from those who would oppose those values and beliefs.

This last sentence also describes how and why gangs organize. Why and when people decided that it was no longer their duty to protect their values and beliefs, but rather it was the government's sole obligation to provide for and protect each individual is beyond me. As long as the general public is willing to abdicate all responsibility for their well being to someone else, then any group who is willing to organize will be free to victimize the unorganized masses.

There are things that you can do that absolutely will make a difference in your neighborhood. When you see gang graffiti, report it to the police. This single action acts as an early warning system to alert police to gang activity moving into an area. After the police have documented the graffiti, remove it immediately. This act sends a message to the community that the site of property belongs to someone who cares about their property enough to keep it clean. It also helps prevent further graffiti by removing the opportunity for rival gangs to cover the first symbol with their own. By allowing gang graffiti to remain on private property, you practically give permission for anyone else to "advertise" on that property.

For those of us with school age children, be aware of things they say and do. Find out the meaning of phrases or drawings that you are not familiar with. Be aware that certain color combinations of clothing may be a sign that your youngster is affiliated in gang activities. A simple change in the direction of the brim of a Multi colored sports cap can demonstrate membership in a gang. Elaborate hand signals are practiced religiously by gang members.

The signs and symbols of gangs are often found in schoolbooks and notebooks. Find out what they mean and discuss the importance of them with your child.

If you own a business, do not allow potential problems by letting youth hang around for no apparent reason. If you are shopping and are intimidated by groups gathering unchallenged, call the store manager and tell them that you refuse to shop at that store until you may do so without fear.

If there are suspicious groups wandering the streets of your block, invite them to leave. If you will not challenge them by yourself, form a group and let it be known that their behavior does not conform with what is expected of them in your neighborhood.

Get to know who belongs in your neighborhood and who does not. Report suspicious behavior to your neighborhood group leader or the police. We are by no means condoning vigilantism, rather, we wholly support vigilance, watchfulness, the community becoming concerned about itself rather than the individual demanding the governmental intervention in the interest of the individual.

The very best prevention measures available to our communities is a partnership between our citizen groups, business groups, church groups, and municipal groups which would include the police. In other words a united group of community organizations, directed as a whole, toward the common goal of making each community a better place to live.

A properly tended garden is a beautiful productive environment. Let the gardeners ignore their plot and weeds will gladly occupy the space that the gardeners intended for themselves. Allowed to continue, the weeds will prosper until the intended crop withers and dies. Weeds do not mourn the passing of flowers.

Editor's note: If there is a subject you would like to see addressed, write to Deputy Martin Smith, Lake County Sheriff's Department, Community Services Division, 25 S. Utica Street, Waukegan, IL 60085, or call (708) 360-5830 and ask for either Martin or LT. Steve Towns-end.

Park City water rates rise

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Park City residents will be paying more for water next year, but still less than neighboring communities.

The city council directed attorney Rudy Magna Jr. to prepare an ordinance which would raise the rates. The council is expected to consider the matter when it meets at 7 p.m. July 2 at the community center, 333 Teske Blvd.

"We have to raise our rates because Waukegan is raising its rates," Mayor Rob Allen said.

Waukegan, Park City's supplier of water, is in the middle of a three-year program to increase rates. It is estimated that in a "typical family," the increase will mean $1.80 more a month and $5.40 more a quarter.

Allen said the city's three main services are police, sewer and water.

"We are significantly below everyone else. We do more with less," Allen said.

Park City's rate as of Aug. 1 would be $1.95 per every 1,000 gallons of water used and .25 for 1,000 gallons of sewer for a charge of $45 per quarter. That compares to $59.70 for Gurnee, $56 for Winthrop Harbor.

For a single family detached house, the average is 6,000 gallons per month while a family of five averages 9,000 gallons a month.

Figures were provided for the three manufactured home parks in town. Midway Mobile Home Park averages 5,800 gallons per home per month; Gene's Mobile Home Park 3,611 gallons per home and Park City Mobile Home Park averages 7,200 gallons per home.

"You have to maintain the water and sewers for people with the money that we have," Allen said.

Piggly Wiggly store sets grand opening for June 30

Gurnee will welcome its newest grocery store as Welton's Village Market - Piggly Wiggly store opens for business next week.

Store tours and buffet will highlight activity June 30 with a ribbon cutting ceremony at 9 a.m. July 1. The store is located at 5330 West Rte. 132, Gurnee.

"We built it to serve the heart of the community, west of Rte. 41 east of Rte. 45. We think the store is very consumer friendly. It will address the busy lifestyle of today's consumer," Richard Welton said.

Welton, who is also mayor of Gurnee, already operates Cub Food stores in Mundelein and Round Lake Beach as well as Gurnee through Welton's Management Services. He described the 47,000 square foot store as a mini-village. "The meat department resembles the old butcher shop days and the produce department looks like a produce shop," Welton said.

Some 20 full-time staffers are expected to be employed with 100 part-timers. With those 120 team members, that brings to 700 team members employed at Welton Management Services stores in Lake County.

Welton praised the cooperation of the wholesaler, Schultz Sav-O Team of Wisconsin.

The operation will be continued in the tradition of the "Welton Way" of doing business, Welton said.

"It is a responsibility. I look at it as a new opportunity to continue to grow," Welton said.

Goodies are Bad-ies

Bravo, to the caller about Hometown Goodies in last week's Lipservice! Her article has been a constant source of irritation to all intelligent readers in the Antioch area. The last article she wrote, reminded me of a composition that my second-grader created. Although I must give credit to the Lizard for writing one article a week on absolutely nothing.

I, too, am banning the Antioch News-Reporter until Hometown Goodies is removed. Thank you!

My Goodie wife is a goddess

Practice what you preach! I take personal offense to the phrase 'gossiping housewife,' as my wife is a well-qualified domestic engineer who considers herself nothing less of a goddess in the homefront lines of Antioch. Couldn't all of your opinions be considered gossip? And were they not gossiping when someone anonymously called to complain about Liz Schmehl? The difference between you and the Lizard is that she has the gumption to include her name with her opinion. Thank you.

She still gets the Goodie paper

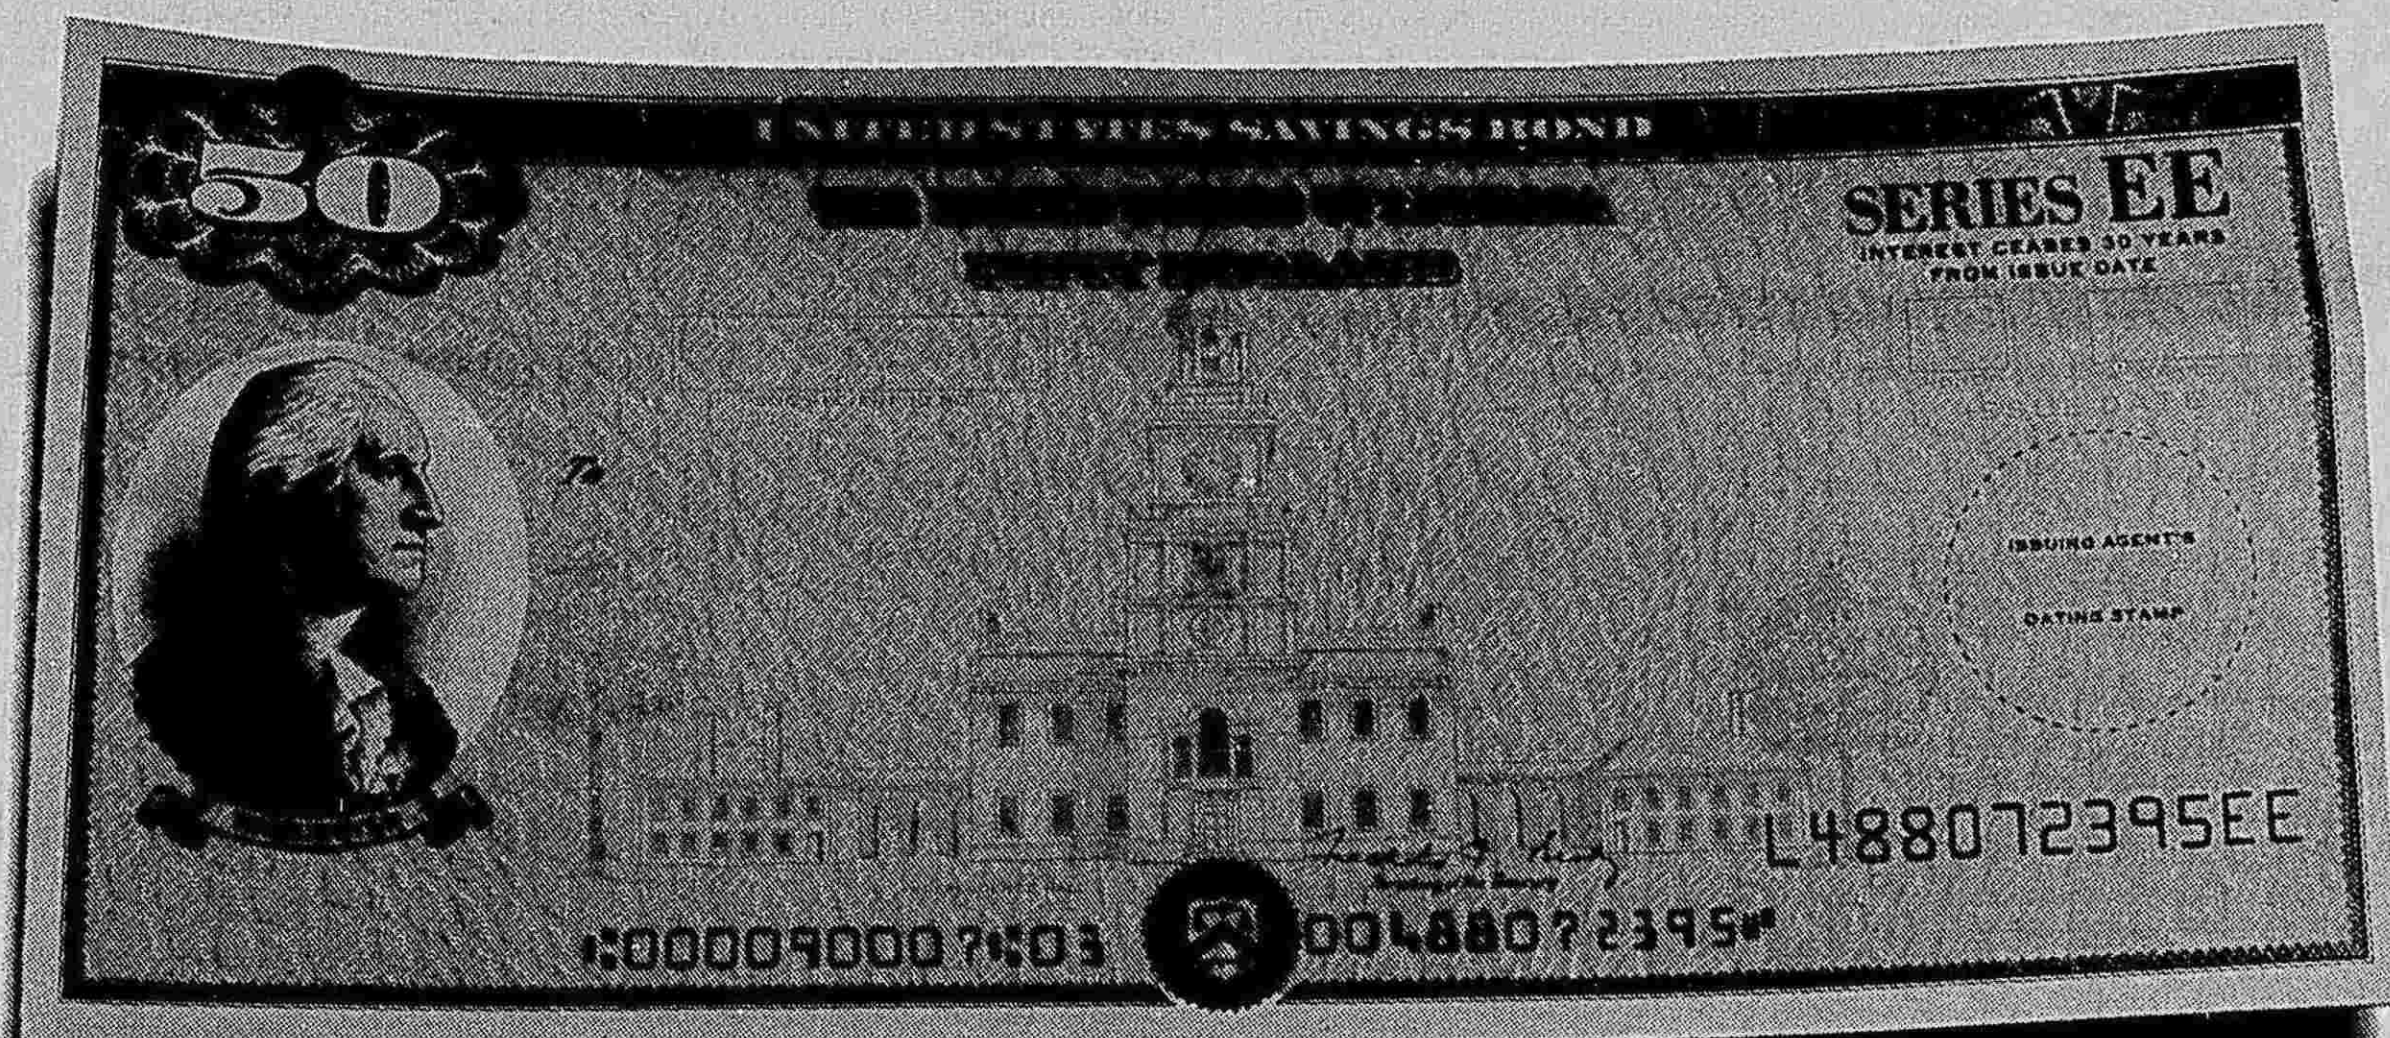

To the reader who criticized Hometown Goodies, she doesn't have to cancel her subscription because she has already done so. But, you should see how fast she runs to the news stand with fifty cents in her hand to purchase her paper and she's even faster at locating the Hometown Goodies column. Trust me, she's a faithful reader. Maybe she'll come out of the closet one day, but until then, she will continue throwing good money after bad, seeing that there is a considerable difference between the news stand price and the subscription price.

The reason I read Goodies

Antioch is my town. I'd like to say that Lipservice is a wonderful idea. But, I was heartsick to see someone use it for hateful, personal reasons, and attack the very author of (Continued on Page 57)

In the Eastern Division another great game was between division rivals. The Red Sox and Cardinals went into their game tied with records of seven to one. But when it was all said and done, the Cardinals walked away with their eighth win. The Red Sox bounced right back with victories over the Indians and Blue Jays. The Mets picked up a win along the way over the Blue Jays.

such an excellent column as Hometown Goodies by Elizabeth Schmehl which is the first reason my family started buying this paper. It was just because of Hometown Goodies. It was just Hometown Goodies that drew us in to the rest of this country paper. Such narrow-minded people should get a life.

I use Goodies

Cancel your subscription, indeed! I am a life-long resident of the village of Antioch. And unlike the caller that was reported in the June 19 edition of the Antioch News-Reporter Lipservice column, my husband and I look forward to reading the Lizard's column each week. We find it both informative and entertaining. My husband and I are involved with several civil organizations and have utilized Hometown Goodies as an excellent way to get good publicity for various functions. On a more personal note, my ninety-year-old aunt was overwhelmed to read about her surprise birthday party in the local newspaper. Liz Schmehl is not a close, personal friend of mine and all it took to get the special coverage for my aunt was a phone call to her to state the particulars of the occasion. Keep up the good work, Liz! You have a lot of support in this town, as you bring a lot of joy and information into the lives of many.

Don't pay for Goodies

I second the motion that Liz Schmehl's article should be banned from the Antioch News-Reporter. Besides those in her juvenillllll group, I don't think anyone in this community really cares to read her weekly update. To be paid to write this trivial column is completely absurd.

Open eyes to Goodies

In reference to the Lipservice opinion, about Hometown Goodies, I think that the person is one-sided, blind-sighted and simple-minded. If this person would put their pettiness aside, and let the personality difference stop, they would realize that this is a paper for everyone! Maybe our

Family Goodies

I find it hard to believe that some person would complain about Liz Schmel, the Lizard, wholesome, healthy-minded Hometown Goodies series. Possibly the person who attacked her series on June 19 could use Liz's family stories to guide their own family into a happier, healthier way of life and not need to put down others already there.

Goodies aren't gossip

I had to laugh when I read "Goodies are not good at all." Liz Schmel was called a 'gossiping housewife' and 'does not deserve to write an article.' This is very interesting. The Lizard has written over the past couple of weeks about the Centennial Park, about Camp Crayon, the senior citizens, the local graduates, etc. If this is called gossip, please, please keep gossiping, Lizard.

Goodies still gossip

I am so glad that someone has finally spoken out about the Hometown Goodies column and I would like to add my two cents. It's hard to believe that a newspaper the caliber of yours would waste space on such drivel. Hopefully, you will receive enough negative calls on this and you will gently let her down and ask her to desist. That kind of trivial gossip does not belong in a newspaper. Get a life, Liz. Antioch.

Blowing away Goodies critics

I am a 65-year-old gentleman who was born and raised in Antioch. I personally enjoy reading Hometown Goodies each week. Liz states that she is a city girl relocated. She could have fooled me. If she was a city girl, she was one with a pleasant, friendly, small town attitude. And this small town thinking is often reflected in her column. Keep up the great work, Liz! You have a fan in me and I wish I was breezy enough to blow away your critics. Thank you!

Mansavage helps youth begin baseball positively

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Art Mansavage has a baseball dream. "I would like to build a lighted baseball field complex in northern Illinois," Mansavage said.

Yes, a very own "Field of Dreams" right here in Lake County. A mecca for baseball players and where baseball fanatics can watch four games on different fields at the same time.

Art Mansavage

"It would take 20 to 30 acres, but you could get it done on 15," Mansavage said.

Mansavage, a successful baseball coach in all types of youth ball to the tune of more than 350 wins, has been honored for his lifetime dedication to the national pastime. He is now director of the Amateur Athletic Union in Illinois.

"The AAU is the oldest baseball Congress in the United States," Mansavage said. "The AAU is not just about baseball, but about all sports - soccer, karate. It is the largest volunteer pool in the United States," Mansavage said.

The AAU is very popular as close as Wisconsin but has not caught on in Illinois. "I'm glad to be able to bring some young blood into the organization," he said.

Baseball in Lake County and northern Illinois in general cannot grow to the level it should in part because of local leagues. "The leagues cater to the average player. When you have better-than-average players, there are not too many places to go for them," Mansavage said.

Mansavage does his best to alleviate that. He has taken a group of 10-and-11-year-olds, the Lake county Chiefs to Abner Doubleday Field in New York and to tournaments in Ohio and Iowa.

In fact, it was two years ago that his youngest son Mac was noticed at an Iowa tourney. "The Chiefs were playing in a tournament in Cedar Rapids, Iowa and Roger Saucerman, who coached the Cedar Rapids team drafted Mac, then eight-years-old, to play for his team," Mansavage said. Today Saucerman is one of the coaches in pre-season drills at Mansavage's home.

Art and Mary Mansavage reflect with pride when players on their earlier teams - such as Warren's Dave Farrow, Round Lake's Pat Lejman, Scott Ellenwood and Jeff Randall, lead high school teams to league titles.

Mansavage's baseball accolades include an impressive list the last five years. The Chiefs won state titles in 1989 and 1990 in CABA baseball and were second in 1987 and 1988 in Pony league play.

He was named amateur coach of the year in 1988. He has been an assistant coach at North Chicago and Carmel High Schools.

Mansavage's father played shortstop but he used the theory of catcher is the fastest way to the majors. Mansavage played the position through his college days at the University of Maryland.

A lover of well-played baseball, he cringes when major leagues can't or won't execute the fundamentals. "Everyone says last year's World Series between the Twins and the Braves was exciting because it went seven games. But I never saw a World Series with more mental errors," he said.

When not in a baseball uniform in the summer months, Mansavage is a radio personality for WJJD in Chicago. He has been doing that for the past five years. Before, he operated a broadcast school.

His Riverwoods home is baseball first, last and always. This Tuesday, a group of parents look on as the Chiefs play catch - to various degrees of success - in the backyard. There is a backstop on one side of the two-acre parcel, a pitching area on another.

"This may seem corny, but my dream is to play catch with my father again," Mansavage said, referring to his late father Bernard.

Round Lake warming up to thoughts of contending

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

The experts, long-time Dist. 10 Legion baseball watchers, may have said it would be a cold day on the first day of summer before a first-year team could take over first place.

To sum up a 6-2 win by Round Lake over Lake Zurich at Round Lake High, it was and they did.

The two teams entered the game neck-and-neck in Legion standings, with Lake Zurich having won its first two games while Round Lake won three of four.

Pitcher Pat Lejman, staked to a three-run lead after one inning, showed the way for Round Lake. He allowed a first-inning single and struckout eight and walked just two.

"He shows he wants to play. This kid loves baseball," Round Lake Coach Glen Jewell said.

"Give all the credit to Round Lake. Their starting pitcher never let us in the game," Lake Zurich Coach Greg Grana said.

The win was Lejman's second in three decisions and he continued his hot hitting as well, with a second-inning double. That came off a three-for-three night in a dramatic 10-7 comeback win over Vernon.

Round Lake continued its aggressive base-running style and then some. The home team doubled its number of stolen bases to hits, 14 to seven.

"I like to utilize that. We had the hit-and-run on twice and we got two runs," Jewell said.

Jewell credits lead-off man Clint Rodriguez with setting the atmosphere which allows for such aggressive baserunning.

"There is no better lead-off hitter," Jewell said.

The tone was set when Rodriguez walked in the Round Lake first, stole second and third and Scott Ellenwood also stole second after walking. Mike Niemczyk walked, Derek Hart had a sacrifice fly and Adam Tesch and Craig Cullom had RBI singles.

Round Lake improved to 4-0 in the third as Alex Ortigosa and Niemczyk singled, and Ortigosa scored as Hart reached on a fielder's choice.

Scott Ellenwood added an RBI single in the fourth and Tesch did the same in the fifth.

Grana's team countered with one in the fifth as Lejman gave up two walks, and another in the sixth after two walks.

Carmel player Curt Bruksch has been among the leading hitters for Lake Zurich. "He is one of the kids who just knows how to hit," Grana said.

Kevin Cunnie, also of Carmel, has two wins and two saves.

Against Vernon, Hart gained his second win for Round Lake as he struckout three and walked three. His two-run single in the five-run fifth capped off the Round Lake rally.

Round Lake was down 7-5 but Tesch had an RBI triple to tie the game and Lejman contributed a key two-out double. Rodriguez had an infield hit, and after a double steal, Hart came through with his heroics.

Hart has been playing well defensively in right field, diving for a catch against Lake Zurich.

For Vernon, Jason Newman was two-for-four with a home run.

Elsewhere in Dist. 10 action, Gurnee clubbed Libertyville 12-2 with four runs in the first and five in the third. Jason Aaron led the way with three RBIs, Joe Hird and Heath Cummings had doubles. Scott Lucadella was the winner for Gurnee (2-2).

Zac Adams led the Libertyville (1-3) attack with a double and two walks.

Barrington had no trouble with Wauconda in a 16-2 win.

This week's Dist. 10 Legion schedule: for June 26, Vernon at Barrington; Highland Park at Lake Zurich; Mundelein at Waukegan and Libertyville at Wauconda. All games are 6 p.m.

For June 29: Libertyville at Round Lake and Vernon at Wauconda.

Harvey-Wild defeats brand-name opponent

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

Everybody knows who Linda Harvey-Wild beat.

Harvey-Wild, a 21-year-old Hawthorn Woods resident, upset Martina Navratilova en route to the final match of the Eastbourne women's grass-court tournament last week.

"She was very excited about it," said Paul Brandt, Harvey-Wild's agent with the Zucker Sports Management Group. "She joked that now she can tell her friends she beat somebody they know."

Harvey-Wild remained in England to begin play at Wimbledon this week.

Despite not being known for her proficiency on grass, Harvey-Wild cruised to the finals at Eastbourne. She was topped 6-4, 6-4 in the championship by American Lori McNeil.

Harvey-Wild was forced to play two matches in one day after her semifinal was washed out. She beat Rosilyn Fairbank-Nideffer 6-1, 6-3 in the semifinal before falling to McNeil.

In the third game against McNeil, Harvey-Wild aggravated a knee injury she suffered during last year's Wimbledon.

"I don't think it's anything serious," Brandt said of the knee injury. "I think she'll be OK."

Brandt's not surprised by Harvey-Wild's success on grass, which is the surface at Wimbledon. He said her athleticism gives her the ability to adapt quickly to unexpected bounces.

"Her game is well-suited for grass courts," Brandt said. "She's a fantastic athlete. She's got a strong serve and a quick volley. I like her chances on grass."

Harvey-Wild was ranked 64th in the world going into the Eastbourne tourney, and Brandt said her stock will rise. He predicted she'll climb into the low 40s this week.

For Navratilova - a nine-time Wimbledon champion and defending Eastbourne champ - it was the first time she had been defeated by a player outside the top 50 since 1981.

JHS offers tennis camp for youth through prep

Johnsburg High School is offering a two-week tennis camp June 29-July 10.

The Skyhawks camp will be held at the four newly resurfaced and revamped courts at the high school.

Seven, eight-and-nine-year-olds will meet from 8 - 8:50 a.m.; 10-12 year-olds from 9 to 9:55 a.m. 13 and 14-year-olds from 10 to 10:55 a.m. and high school students from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

The camp was first offered two years ago. It includes the option to purchase a Skyhawk Tennis Camp t-shirt for $6.50.

The camp, coached by JHS girls tennis coach Rick Bailey has the philosophy of trying to promote an interest in tennis as a lifelong sport for those who have not yet been exposed to the sport or continue in the development and improvement of players who have been involved from beginners to advanced.

The cost is $25 for 10 one-hour sessions for ages seven through 14, $30 for 10 90 minute sessions for high-school students.

Fees may be brought to the first day of camp.

Bailey will be joined by boys coach Bill Trunkhill and Lori Szarek, a four-year member of the JHS varsity tennis program.

Bailey has been at Johnsborg the last four years after spending a year at Badger

High. Previously, he spent four months as a teaching pro at John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch in Scottsdale, Arizona. He played NAIA collegiate tennis at Iowa Wesleyan from 1976 to 1979.

Szarek played No. 1 singles three years at the varsity for the Skyhawks. She was undefeated Northwest Suburban Conference champion in 1991 and qualified for the IHSA state tourney in 1990.

Wrestling camp set

Warren Twp. High School will be hosting the third annual Blue Devil Wrestling Camp in July.

The dates will be July 6-31, meeting on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the fieldhouse. The camp will be for seventh-graders through high school. Cost is $25, payable the first night.

Tony Flippo, assistant wrestling coach at Warren, will be conducting the camp. For more information, call Flippo at Warren Twp. High School, (708) 662-1400.

Hundreds learn the basics at summer hoops camps

Doors are open to improve ventilation, water bottles seen in all corners.

Yes, it's that time of year again - time for youths to lace up those sneakers and head down to the gymnasium for summer basketball camp.

At Stevenson, the Coach

Ken Johnson's camp began June 15 through July 3 with a session for fourth through eighth-graders.

Some 185 participated last year, and that number could increase. Stevenson draws from its own winter Patriot leagues and could be bolstered by the Pats' rise to the Elite Eight last winter.

Carmel Coach Scott Rosberg offers morning and afternoon camps June 15 and concluding June 26 for grade and junior high school students. Fifth and sixth-graders meet from 9 to 11 a.m. and seventh and eighth graders noon to 2 p.m. Cost is $65.

"Most of our players have come up through the camp," Rosberg said, pointing to last year's standouts Dan Graham, Dan Devito and Pete Eisenbarth. The camp for high schoolers will be from 8:30 to 11 a.m. from June 29 - July 10. Cost is $70.

At Libertyville High, interest is such that Coach Max Sanders is looking for more assistants.

"We have more than 300 signed up. I attribute that to our success two years ago (a fourth-place finish) and the Bulls," Sanders said.

Two camp sessions are offered, from June 17 - July 7 and July 8-28. Prices range from $41 for an early session for third to fifth-grade up to $81 for the second session for high school students.

Family bragging rights on line in Wilmot races

Frank Filsko of Des Plaines scored his second 25-lap winged sprint car feature of the season at Toft Auto Racing's Wilmot Speedway as part of Midwest Motorcoach of Gurnee Night on June 20.

Genesee's Gary Dye won his first 20-lap modified feature edging out pointleader Lenny Ostrowski Jr. by less than one car length at the checkered flag. In the 20-lap sportsman main, Kenosha's Evie Atkinson burst out of three-way side by side battle to score her first feature win ever by inches over pointleader Dennis Kratz. Ryan Walsh of Harvard won his second 10-lap dwarf race car main, while Jim Morrison of Antioch beat out his brother, Roy, for his first 10-lap mini-modified main event win.

Mike Frost took the early lead in the sprint main that was slowed once by a caution on lap three for a spun mount. Filsko worked his Service Truck and Trailer/Sinclair Racing Engine Assembly/Weiland Racing Wheels sprinter into contention on lap eight and began dueling with frost wing to wing as the pair sliced through lapped traffic. Filsko went in front on lap 11 and one circuit later, Frost retired to the infield when his top wing brackets broke as he raced down the backstretch leaving him unable to see. Pointleader Dave Moulis closed in on Filsko during the final circuits but could not get past. Bob Peterson was third, fast qualifier Dale Peterson fourth and Joe Roe fifth.

Coming for the white flag, Atkinson, Olson and Kratz went three-wide coming out of turn four. With the crowd on its feet, the trio battled around the one-third mile clay oval for the last lap. Coming for the last lap, Atkinson scored her first feature win, inches over Kratz. Olson, Dave Webb and Mark Ring rounded out the top five.

Knights set final tryout

The Lake County Knights have had their first taste of football weather. They have had cloudy, chilly mornings for two of their tryout and practice sessions.

Coach Tom Nelson joked with the players, "I ordered cool weather so we don't have to work up much of a sweat." But work up a sweat they did during each three-hour workout.

The weekly mini-camps, designed to keep players active, have intensified in anticipation of the final tryout session on Saturday, June 27. The coaches will select the most dedicated and talented players for the first-year semi-pro team.

"It's a big commitment.

We'll see who wants to play," Nelson said.

Official practices will begin on July 14. A scrimmage against the Chicago Thunder will be held at 1 p.m. Aug. 2. It will be the one and only chance for Knights fans to see a home game at the practice fields, Rtes. 176, 83 and 60 in Ivanhoe as the team will play all road games in the Chicagoland Football League.

Dr. Julie McLaughlin of McLaughlin Chiropractic Ltd. in Lake Forest has volunteered to be on hand at many of the Knights' practices and games for treatment and taping.

Steve Sterkel, an account representative from Hayden's Sports Center in Montgomery, Ill. attended a mini-camp to take players' orders for equipment.

Volunteers have donated time, money and equipment to work on the practice field. These include sponsor Coca-Cola, Nature Landscaping of Cary and Hank Hernandez Excavating of Mundelein. Obenauf Disposal Service of Mundelein is contributing pick-up service.

For those still interested in playing for the Knights in the inaugural season, call (708) 223-5231 for more details.

Love kids, solve all problems

Yeah, thanks for letting me talk. I just want to say that we can't give up on the kids of America today. So many kids are in so much trouble, and it all starts at home. Guys, listen up! We have got to love our children and show them that we love and respect them and give all we have to our children. Believe it or not, we went to a wedding today where there was a 20-year-old groom and an 18-year-old bride. And they were virgins. It is possible. We have got to teach our children abstinence and good morals and shower them with love. We have got to put the child molesters in jail, the rapists in jail, and we have got to get this country back on its feet. Because if we don't, it is going to get worse. Kids are the most important asset in the whole world. First is our relationship with the Lord, because when we have the Lord in our life, anything is possible. And I'm just glad that I have my wonderful daughter that I can talk to openly. And I am so proud of her. I love her and my husband. Thank you for letting me talk. Round Lake Beach

Eric is hero

I am so proud of Eric Gunther and saving that pregnant woman's life. Boy, if he could be around whenever I needed it, he could save my life. I hope he goes on to become president or something wonderful and gets all his wishes. Thanks, Eric, you're a hero! I hope everybody treats you like one and you get an award for what you did. See there are some neat kids in the world!

Choppy job

I went to get my hair done at a local beauty shop. I not only received a short cut that made me unhappy, but enough gossip about the Grass Lake area for a life time. When and if my hair ever grows out, you can bet I'll be going to a different salon. Thank you.

Make own role models

I have a message for the young people of America. Accept the good examples that the older Americans give and throw away the bad, such as social drinking, alcohol abuse, smoking and other forms of drug addiction that the adult world seems to think is okay. Do not be like the adults. You can be better than them.. Thank you.

School Board wars

My children go to Grass Lake school. I'm really tired of the fighting in the school board. Our children are the most important asset in the future. They are going to take care of us. It is about time that that school board gets their acts together. I'm just really, really tired of it. Thank you!

Smile!

Hi, I just have this old time saying that if I could put a smile on one person's face a day, to me, that makes my day. 365 smiles a year, and it don't cost anything. And if a person that I put a smile on, made someone also smile, I have succeeded in doing what I believe is right.. And it is no cost, and a wonderful feeling. People will know who put this in the paper, because I am a senior. And I enjoy being a senior because there are so many things that people do not stop to think. Why take a trip to Europe when there is such beautiful stuff here, if you stop to look at it. Have a nice day, and I hope I put a smile on your face. Thank you again, good-bye.

Spelling lesson

Hey, Quail! P-O-T-A-T-O! Ha, ha, ha!

U.S. as good as Europe

You know, people go to Europe to see a beautiful country and for ethnic food. But, if they stopped and took a good look around, they have a beautiful country right here. If they took the time and looked real good it is most enjoyable. And as for foreign food if you like one thing, look in the telephone directory and you can get it. Maybe it will be a day trip, but, by heaven, it is wonderful. You just cannot enjoy life until you take a good look around at what good things you have in your own life. Thank you for listening. Have a nice day.

Unfair sticker fine

I went to the village hall and they asked me if I had a village sticker. And I said, "No, what do you need a village sticker for?" She said, "Well, you have to have one." So I said, "Okay, how much does that cost, as long as I have my checkbook out." And she said, "It's $6, but I'm going to have to charge you extra because you have lived in the village for more than thirty days." So I go, "Well how am I going to do that if I just found out two minutes ago!" So, need-less-to-say, they fined me. The village has had some embezzling problems, I wonder if they are trying to make up for it now? This has cost a new Round Lake Beach resident almost $200. So far, I love this area. NOT!

Parents need to get involved

What's wrong with kids these days? Lazy, uninvolved, irresponsible parents, that's what! These neglected children join gangs, disrupt the classroom, terrorize and vandalize our neighborhood because they are starving for attention. You know who you are! You are the parent the teacher calls. Notes come home from school almost daily. The neighbors complain about your child and the police visit your home frequently. You don't want to see what is going on so you keep blaming your child and tell him that he is no good. I feel that the law should hold all parents accountable for the children's actions from the very first offense. Let the parents spend a night in jail, do community service along with their child, and make it mandatory for parent and child to get counseling. Then, maybe, our jails wouldn't be so full and crime would decline and parents would learn how to be parents.

Parade for kids, not Beyer

I'm calling about the front page article in the Round Lake News. Who is Ms. Charlene Beyer? And why does she decide that Avon Township Youth Baseball team is her rival? Is this a way to teach our future Americans, the leaders of our country to fight with them and not allow these boys to be in the parade? What is the problem? I don't understand. Would she prefer all these kids to give up baseball and become gang members? We are trying to teach our young children to be leaders of tomorrow, good citizens of our community and they are thrown out of the parade? If there was a problem last year, why was it held in her silence for 12 months? Why wasn't anything said a year ago? I feel this is a political plot. I think Ms. Beyer should come to Avon Township and see what is going on. It is a total non-profit organization, 100% volunteer. It is to get the children off of the streets and get them involved in a group activity, something that they can be proud of. And these kids are told that they cannot be in the parade? I don't understand the leaders of our community. They let one woman make the decisions for a whole community? Ms. Beyer, I hope you can look at yourself in the mirror. I feel sorry for you.

Boycott the Beyer Parade

All Avon Township Residents... the children need your support! Since the Fourth of July Parade is now the Charlene Beyer Parade and she, no doubt, controls the officials. I say, let her have her parade! Let's forget the fact that the youth baseball teams have been in it for 25 years. And Ms. Beyer is slandering the youth baseball teams with her false accusations and unfounded. We, the people, have to support our youth and our rights as Americans. Please do not attend Ms. Beyer's parade and encourage your neighbors to do the same. If everyone boycotts the parade, Ms. Beyer's dream won't come true. I am asking everyone to wear black ribbons and hang them from your front yard. Let's all show our children that we do care and that they do matter to us. Come to the baseball complex on July 4th and see what a wonderful program that it is. Support our children. Thank you for your support.
